MOLLISON'S OCEAN HOP SETS RECORD

Lands in Southern New Brunswick After Flight From Ireland; First Westward Solo Plane Trip Across Atlantic

His Flight Estimated At 2,700 Miles

Daring Aviator, Husband of Amy Johnson, Plans to Fly to British Isles From New York

Canadian Press

St. John, Aug. 19.—Pilot J. A. Mollison, Scottish flier who landed at Pennfield Ridge, N.B., to-day after a transatlantic flight from Ireland — the first west-to-east solo plane journey across the Atlantic — said he would carry out his original plan and attempt a return flight from New York to the British Isles after a few days' rest in New York.

RESTS OVERNIGHT

Pennfield Ridge, N.B., Aug. 19.—"I am glad I justified her confidence in me," declared Pilot J. A. Mollison, transatlantic flier, as he stepped from the cockpit of his "flying gasoline tank" after making a perfect landing here early this afternoon.

His first concern was how to get a cablegram through to his wife, the former Amy Johnson of long-distance flying fame, in London.

"I am all in. Do you mind if I leave my plane here for the night?" he asked the owner of the field as a great number of residents of this small village rushed up to greet him.

Haggard and wan, Mr. Mollison accepted the invitation of Raymond Hawkins to rest at his house. He drank a cup of tea, but would take no solid food as he was afraid of the effects. During the flight he ate only barley washed down with a few nips of brandy.

Hon. H. I. Taylor, Minister of Health of New Brunswick, was one of the first

FLIGHT PLEASES BRITISH PEOPLE

London, Aug. 19.—Captain Mollinson's safe landing at Pennfield Ridge, N.B., caused delight in London and Ireland, which regarded his fast westward crossing as a new record added to British air achievements.

NEWS PLEASES FLIER'S MOTHER

Canadian Press

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 19.—Capt. J. A. Mollison's mother, Mrs. Bullmore, was delighted to hear his plane had landed in Canada to-day.

"That's wonderful," she said. "My heart is content. I haven't slept a wink since he started. The strain of waiting was terrible, but I had every confidence in Jim."

Capt. Mollison was born here in 1905, went to school here and till to-day had not been in North America.

MAY SOON JOIN GERMAN CABINET

Ulric von Hassel, German minister to Jugoslavia, and son-in-law of the late Admiral von Tirpitz, is mentioned prominently as a candidate for the post of Foreign Minister in the German cabinet if Baron Constantine von Neurath, present Foreign Cinister resigns, as expected to become German ambassador to the United States. The change is one of several cabinet shiffs regarded as probable before its personnel is presented to the new Reichstag late this month.

FIRST OF EMPIRE PACTS COMPLETED, WITH BRITAIN AND CANADA TO FOLLOW

South African-British, India-British and Two Other Imperial Conference Agreements Signed at Ottawa

Canada's Pact Near Completion

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Signing of empire agreements has already begun.

This morning, trade agreements were signed between:

India and the United Kingdom.

Newfoundland and the United Kingdom.

South Africa and the United Kingdom.

Southern Rhodesia and the United Kingdom.

The Anglo-Canadian agreement and the agreements between the United Kingdom and New Zealand and Australia have reached the stage of final draft.

All the agreements provide for extension of mutual preferences, in some cases by way of tariffs, in others by way of quota restriction or foreign imports.

The Canadian and United Kingdom delegations met at 9.30 this forenoon. After a few minutes, adjournment was made for a meeting of the Dominion cabinet. The cabinet rose for further consultation with the British delegates. As a result of the consultations, outstanding points were cleared up and the only point remaining was that of technical phraseology.

BEFORE TARIFF BOARD

Appearance of British industrialists before the Canadian tariff board was considered. One suggestion made was that British industrial interests should be entitled to appear on the question of additions to the free list. This suggestion, it is understood, was not favorably received. The idea rather was that such applications should not be received for two years. The point was still under discussion at last reports.

The Anglo-Canadian agreement, it is understood, is for five years.

AGAINST DUMPING

On the question of Russian dumping, the agreement will provide against "state-controlled competition." Russia is not specifically mentioned.

United Kingdom Preference of Six Cents a Bushel on Canadian Wheat Reported Included in Agreement

Quota on Bacon British Plan

By R. K. Carnegie, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—The following are the principal advantages which will accrue to the Canadian farmers as the result of the United Kingdom - Canada trade agreement which is all but completed — the figures being changed to Canadian money and therefore approximate:

Apples — 85 cents a barrel preference in the United Kingdom market.

Butter—Fifteen per cent ad valorem preference.

Bacon—A quota designed to increase the prices to United Kingdom farmers, with Canadian farmers enjoying the same advantage.

Cattle—Present restrictions to be lifted, giving Canadian cattle the same conditions in Great Britain as have prevailed in the past in regard to cattle from Ireland. This has been urged by livestock interests of Canada.

Cheese—Fifteen per cent ad valorem preference.

Potatoes—Embargo to be lifted December 1, unless in the meantime an examination by United Kingdom experts on the handling of the Canadian crop proves there is a danger of potato bugs being carried to Great Britain.

Wheat—Approximately six cents a bushel preference.

The foregoing provisions were learned on excellent authority to-day.

The figures are subject to last-minute variations.

Most of the final decisions were reached yesterday when official delegates from Britain and Canada met in a lengthy conference. Canada was represented by Premier Bennett, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

APPLES FROM B.C.

The preference of 85 cents a barrel or 85 cents for 135 pounds for apples shipped in such containers and a corresponding amount for apples shipped in boxes, should be of great advantage, it is said, to the apple growers of Canada, particularly in the Maritimes and British Columbia. Canadian canned and dried fruit are also to be given advantages in the United Kingdom markets.

The 15 per cent preference on butter and cheese is 5 per cent more than that at present in force.

QUOTA FOR BACON

The bacon situation is rather complex. Since such a small proportion of the total imports to the United Kingdom comes from the dominions, a preference was regarded by the British delegates as taxing the bulk of the imports to help a small portion. However, Britain is anxious to assist its own farmers in this regard. It is try-

Vancouver Harbor Commission Lets Contract For Work Totaling $93,000

Space For 475,000 Bushels of Grain; Work For Many Men

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—With a bid of $93,000, the lowest submitted, Carter, Halls & Aldinger Ltd., Vancouver, won the contract for work on the superstructure of No. 1 Vancouver Harbor Board grain elevator addition.

Eight other firms, including one in Calgary and one in Toronto, entered bids which ranged from the successful low one to $113,000.

Work on the addition, which will provide storage space for an additional 475,000 bushels, will be started immediately and is expected to be completed in two and one-half months.

A clause in the agreement calls for only Canadian workmen at fair wages, with married Canadian residents being given first preference and single Canadians with dependents next.

PICCARD TO GO UP FROM HUDSON BAY

Belgian Professor Who With Companion Soared Over Europe Yesterday. Plans Stratosphere Ascent Next Summer From Churchill, Manitoba

Canadian Press

Desenzano, Italy, Aug. 19.—Prof. Auguste Piccard, rested to-day after his record-breaking ascent into the stratosphere yesterday, announced he would begin immediately to prepare for a third ascent, this time from the northwest shore of Hudson Bay. It was conjectured he might make Canada's most northerly seaport, Churchill, Manitoba, his base.

"The moment we finish the work of calculating the results recorded by our instruments on yesterday's flight," he said, "we will begin preparations for the third experiment.

"We plan to take off from the northwest shore of Hudson Bay, as close as we can get to the North Pole. Our purpose will be to complete the study of cosmic rays at a point where the lines of magnetic force penetrate the stratosphere. A solution for many scientific problems will be provided when we know how the rays act under these conditions."

The third expedition, he said, would not begin until the middle of next summer.

Asked what he was going to do now, the bushy-haired little scientist said with a smile: "I'm going to take a swim in Lake Garda." The lake near here was spotted by him and Max Cosyn, his companion, yesterday from the sky as a guide to a landing and they came down near its shore.

VERIFYING RESULTS

His next scientific move, he said, would be to take the instruments he carried with him to a height of more than ten miles above the earth yesterday, to Zurich, Switzerland, starting point of his flight, to have the seals removed and the results verified.

"Then," he said, "will begin several months of figuring on our experiments and after that we will be free to start planning the third flight from Hudson Bay."

BANK TO PAY DIVIDEND

Canadian Press

Montreal, Aug. 19.—The Dominion Bank has declared a dividend of 2½ per cent. for the current quarter, payable October 1, to shareholders of record September 20. This was announced here to-day.

The dividend is at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, a reduction of 2 per cent. from the 12 per cent. rate previously paid. The reduction of 2 per cent. is in conformity with similar action recently taken by other Canadian banks.

MINE WORKERS ARE STOPPED

Associated Press

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 19.—Ten thousand or more striking union coal miners stopped all mining operations in this area to-day and leaders announced they planned to spread over southern Illinois and continue their campaign.

TROOPS ON CALL

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 19.—Illinois National Guardsmen to-day stood ready in two nearby cities to move into Christian County in event of disturbances resulting from the presence of more than 10,000 striking miners intent on picketing working mines.

The troops were moved out of Camp Grant at Rockford early to-day and sent to their home armories at Decatur and Springfield, both less than thirty miles distant.

Christian County was occupied yesterday by striking miners from adjacent counties. The occupation was made without incident. Sheriff Charles Wieneke had previously removed the barricades on highways and sent his large force of special deputies to their homes.

INTERIOR OPPOSES KIDD POLICE PLAN

Col. Fred. Lister, M.P.P., Here, Presents View of Small Communities Against Commission Proposals

Protest against the recommendation of the Kidd commission to do away with the Provincial Police force and put the Royal Canadian Mounted in charge of everything in British Columbia except the cities of Vancouver and Victoria was voiced at the Parliament Buildings to-day by Col. Fred Lister, M.P.P. for Creston, upon his arrival to confer with members of the Tolmie government.

"We in the up-country are dead against this plan of abolishing the provincial police," said Col. Lister. "The committee was not familiar with country conditions in arriving at this recommendation. Transfer of the policing to the Mounties would cost the taxpayers more. For instance, in my district, the provincial policeman in addition to carrying out all police duties collects most of the taxes. Last year he collected $18,000 taxes. The Mounties would not do this. The result of the change would be the taxpayers would have to pay for the Mounties to do the policing and then hire tax-collectors to do the work the provincial police are doing in these outlying districts.

"The up-country is also dead against the proposal of the Kidd committee to close down most of the government agencies. That would work a very real hardship on the small miner, prospector or settler, who would thus be forced to travel a long distance to one of the large centres to do his recording and other business with the government. In most cases these pioneering men have not got the money to pay for such a trip. Such conditions of life and work in other parts of the province, don't seem to be realized by persons comfortably established in the cities of Vancouver and Victoria, whose point of view is expressed in these proposals of the Kidd report."

FAVORS HOUSE AND CABINET CUT

Col. Lister declared himself in favor of a number of proposals in the report, but said he was going to stand up for the rights and interests of the people in the sparsely-settled interior. He came out in favor of a smaller cabinet and reduced Legislature, but not one as small as the fourteen-men House proposed by the Kidd committee.

JUNKING P.G.E. IS OPPOSED

Cattlemen and Miners Hard Hit By Kidd Proposal, Officials Here Protest

Move to Abolish Fisheries Department Also Criticized at Parliament Buildings

Proposal of the Kidd Committee that operation of the government owned P.G.E. Railway be discontinued immediately and the remains salvaged and sold off at the expiration of nine months, is meeting with little favor among government officials at the Parliament Buildings here. Cattlemen in the north country would be hard hit by such a move, it is pointed out, and the development of promising mining properties would be seriously retarded. The railway at present is said to be almost meeting its operating cost, although, of course, it pays nothing on its interest or debt. The greatest expense in the next ten years would be replacement of trestles.

The government has had from time to time, offers to purchase the road from syndicates all over the continent and Great Britain and it is not felt that such a proposal, with the committee's opposition to any land or other grant from the government to help along the sale, is conducive to successful negotiations of an agreement for the disposal of the railway.

British Financial Circles Hear Canadian Government May Seek Funds

Canadian Press

London, Aug. 19.—Financial circles are discussing the possibility of the embargo on new issues being removed now that the big war loan conversion operation has succeeded. The Canadian Government is reported to have about $40,000,000 of 4 per cent notes falling due in New York at the end of the year, and there are rumors some of this liability will be transferred to London, where money is now cheap and easily obtained and where exchange is favorable to the Canadian dollar.

SOVIET ORDERS

An emergency meeting of the Manchester Trades Council yesterday evening urged the government to give the most liberal guarantees for accelerating the orders for manufacturers and supplies required by authorized Soviet Government representatives. It was stated thousands of workers in London alone could be making agricultural machinery for Russia if only their firms could get credits.

It is alleged by trades officials that Russia wanted to place orders worth $25,000,000, but the government of the United Kingdom influenced the exports credit and guarantee department to limit them to $7,200,000. This department has never yet lost a penny on Russian orders.

TWO SIDES SEEKING ARBITRATION BASIS

British and Irish Delegates to Continue Effort to Settle Annuities Dispute After Returning Home From Ottawa

By W. W. Murray, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Possibility of a definite settlement in Ottawa of the Anglo-Irish dispute receded to-day with a statement by Sean T. O'Kelly, leader of the Free State delegation to the Imperial Conference, that "negotiations will be continued between the United Kingdom and Ireland when the delegates return to their respective homes." Nevertheless good progress has been made here in the discussions between Mr. O'Kelly and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, British Dominions secretary.

The stumbling block continues to be the composition of the tribunal which will examine the legality of the $15,600,000 annuities. The United Kingdom adheres to its position the question is a domestic one—domestic, that is, inasmuch as it affects only two members of the British Commonwealth. By reason of this, the representatives of the United Kingdom hold the tribunal should consist of members selected from Commonwealth states.

IRELAND'S POSITION

On the other hand, the Free State has not departed from its position that no conditions should be attached to the appointment of the tribunal—that Ireland should be left free to name its representatives from any country it decides on. Mr. O'Kelly today intimated the Irish position did not necessarily mean the Free State would go outside the Commonwealth for its appointees. All it meant, he said, was that Ireland did not want restrictions placed on it as to who should represent that country.

The situation has reduced itself to a search for a formula. Mr. O'Kelly was hopeful this would shortly be found. Both countries are anxious to compose their differences, and it is believed this state of mind should lead to a real settlement.

Victoria Seeks Cut in Bill For Mental Upkeep Contribution

Mayor Taylor of Vancouver has been in touch with Premier Tolmie and Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, on the subject and the promised conference. As a result, the meeting Wednesday did nothing more than review the matters under consideration.

Have They Caught The Man Who Killed Kitchener?

Sought since 1919, when he escaped from a prison ward hospital, a man believed to be Capt. Fritz Joubert Duquesne has been taken by detectives in New York.

Reports from London say Duquesne was one of the best of German spies during the war. Some sources there link him with the mysterious loss of the British battleship Hampshire while she was carrying General Kitchener, head of the British armies, on a mission to Russia.

Whoever this man is he has had a career of international plotting. The story of it will be told as a feature of the Saturday Magazine Section of The Victoria Daily Times to-morrow.

FOREIGN MARKETS DECLARED NEEDED

Viscount Grey Comments on Britain's Position and Imperial Conference

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 19.—It is most difficult at present to recognize the direct reactions of trade and commerce here to work of the Imperial Conference. The rank and file of business are still in the dark as to the real achievements at Ottawa and await the return of advisory delegates before expressing an opinion.

Economists are momentarily inclined to hail the success of the great British war loan conversion scheme as more worthy of congratulation. Viscount Grey says the country's financial credit still requires careful nursing, and while not liking tariffs, the former Liberal Foreign Secretary is prepared to judge them by results.

"Whatever may be the outcome of Ottawa," asserts Viscount Grey, "however favorable it may be regarding things inside the empire, even complete free trade within the empire would not compensate this country for the loss of foreign markets. If at the end of one year the government shows it has brought down the tariffs of foreign countries, I shall be prepared to revise my opinion of its present fiscal policy."

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Found guilty of assaulting a police officer during an unemployed demonstration here August 2, Frederick Miller of Vancouver today was remanded one week for sentence.

Miller, who told the court he served overseas from 1916 to 1918, and represented ex-service men of Vancouver at the unemployed economic conference here, denied connection with any communistic organization.

The accused admitted he had kicked an officer in the leg, but only after he had been struck on the back of the head with a baton, he said, and his eyes blackened.

Former school friends of the deceased boy and girl acted as pallbearers, those for Miss Gilliland being D. Genn, Roy Lund, R. W. Tervo, W. Whitlaw, Thomas Stevenson and Lloyd Bassett; and C. Cuzner, Louis Milligan, Bruce Macmurchie, B. Davidson, W. Cuzner and R. Ard for Mr. Francis.

J. MERRYFIELD OF ROYAL CITY DIES

Canadian Press

New Westminster, Aug. 19.—James Merryfield, ninety-seven, who spent a lifetime in the Fraser Valley, having resided at Mount Lehman for seventy-two years, died in Royal Columbia Hospital yesterday evening.

He was born in Cornwall, England, and came to Canada by way of Cape Horn in 1850. In 1860 he settled in the Fraser Valley and started farming at Mount Lehman in Matsqui municipality. At that time the Fraser Valley was a wilderness and a few shacks comprised Vancouver and New Westminster.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Merryfield was remarkably active until he injured himself when he fell five months ago.

He is survived by two sons, William Merryfield, formerly reeve of Matsqui, and Joseph Merryfield, formerly provincial organizer of the Conservative Party, and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Nichol of Bradner and Mrs. Munroe Ferguson of Mount Lehman. Three sons predeceased him.

QUOTA ON BACON BRITISH PLAN

ing to increase production of high grade bacon within the United Kingdom. Accordingly the British Government proposes to put a quota on all bacon coming in. This quota will apply against Canada also, but will be so high as to exceed what Canada might be able to produce for many years.

The imposition of the quota is planned to raise the price of bacon in the United Kingdom until it will be profitable for the United Kingdom farmers to raise hogs. Such increased price would of course also be obtained by the Canadian farmers as well as those in England.

The many vexatious restrictions imposed on Canadian live cattle going into United Kingdom ports will be lifted so Canadian cattle will enter on the same terms as in the last year Irish cattle have been shipped in. This will allow greater freedom in sending over cattle to be finished there and eliminate a great deal of the incidental expenses Canadian shippers have had to pay in the past.

CHOOSE CANDIDATE FOR BY-ELECTION

Canadian Press

London, Aug. 19. — Hylton Murray-Philipson to-day was selected from twenty aspirants to contest the Twickenham by-election in the Conservative interest. The by-election, necessitated by the death of the Conservative member, Sir John Ferguson, has been postponed until September in order to avoid holiday electioneering.

Mr. Murray-Philipson, grandson of the late Lord Elibank, has large property holdings in the Twickenham district and strong Empire interests which may induce Lord Beaverbrook's Empire free traders to refrain from submitting a candidate.

P. Homan, defeated in the general election of October 27, 1931, will again contest Twickenham for the Labor Party. It is possible there may also be a Liberal candidate.

Twickenham is generally regarded as a safe but expensive Conservative preserve. It gave Sir John Ferguson a majority of more than 25,000.

TRANSIENTS IDLE PROBLEM

"People on the land in the Creston district have not been getting any price for their berries or cherries this season, but like hardy pioneers they have been making the best of it and faring fairly well," Col. Lister went on.

"Unemployment among residents of the district is not the problem for us. The Sheep Creek power plant and flume for the Reno mine is going ahead. It alone is employing 250 men. Several other mines are opening up, adding to employment. However, we are flooded by transients who land on us in automobiles from the prairies and have not the money to go farther west."

MORE RECLAMATION WORK

Col. Lister said that plans had now been completed to proceed in the autumn with the extension of the Creston Reclamation Scheme by bringing in 10,000 more acres, in addition to the 8,000 already reclaimed. He said this project would also improve employment conditions in his riding this winter.

to shake hands with the flier and extend congratulations.

HIS LANDING

Pennfield Ridge, N.B., Aug. 19.—Haggard and drawn after more than thirty hours at the controls of his "flying gasoline tank," Capt. J. A. Mollison brought his Puss Moth plane to a perfect landing here to-day a quarter of an hour before noon (eastern standard time), and ended with success the first westward solo crossing of the Atlantic by air.

Farmers and fishermen flocked from this little settlement, forty miles down the Bay of Fundy coast from St. John, to where the plane landed half a mile from the tiny railway station. Pilot Mollison told them weather during the last half of his flight from Port Marnock, Ireland, had been unfavorable, but that the only reason he had not pushed on to his goal at New York was because he was too tired.

At a nearby farmhouse he asked his wife—Amy Johnson, equally famed flier—be notified of his safe arrival. Immediately word was sent to St. John by telephone, to be relayed to Mrs. Mollison at London.

PLENTY OF FUEL LEFT

There was plenty of fuel in the plane to go on, Pilot Mollison stated.

The plane landed on a high flat ridge, overlooking the misty Atlantic the daring aviator had just crossed.

After talking over the long-distance telephone to St. John, the flier, who has come to be known as an Australian, said he expected to leave for that city after a brief rest.

Pilot Mollison smiled broadly when he was advised word of his arrival was being rushed to London. When told his wife had said "I'm sure it's Jim," when he was reported over Halifax more than six hours before, he laughed and added: "She was always sure I'd find it easy."

CHANGED COURSE

I passed Harbor Grace in Newfoundland and Halifax this morning and went over St. John at 11 o'clock, (eastern standard time)," he said. This indicated a period of almost six hours occupied in flying a distance of about 150 miles by direct line, since he had been reported over Halifax at 5.05 (eastern standard time).

"Misty weather over the Bay and I just groped along," Pilot Mollison went on. "I wanted to get along to New York, but the trouble of weaving through the low clouds and heavy mist must have tired me out. I just couldn't go on.

Apparently, Pilot Mollison had sought to follow the circuitious coast of the Bay of Fundy, which swings back north of western Nova Scotia and then back southwest, with St. John and Pennfield Ridge on the opposite shore.

While all the Maritimes and New England kept a watch for him, he groped his way over the Bay of Fundy and finally glided down to a perfect landing on a grassy field at Pennfield Ridge.

All through the night, the pilot said, he had flown through clouds and heavy mist. "The weather conditions were very unfavorable during the last eighteen hours," he said.

He had been at the controls of his "Heart's Content," his little monoplane, for thirty hours and ten minutes, sitting on a bare uncushioned seat and pushing his "flying gasoline tank" across about 2,700 miles from Port Marnock.

OVER HALIFAX

Halifax, Aug. 19.—Capt. J. A. Mollison, famous Scottish-Australian long-distance flier, completed a transatlantic crossing early to-day, passed over Halifax at 5.05 E.S.T. (2.05 this morning, Victoria time).

He passed over here just twenty-four hours and ten minutes after yesterday's takeoff from Port Marnock, Ireland.

The air line distance from Port Marnock to Halifax is approximately 2,663 miles.

Before he started Mollison estimated it would take him twenty-three hours to get to Harbor Grace. He intended to stop there only long enough to refill his tanks, and then go on to New York, make a brief stop there and then hop off as quickly as possible for a flight back to Ireland.

As Mollison circled low over the airport here, airmen read on the fuselage of the little monoplane the identifying registry letters G-ABXY.

HEARD BY TOWN PEOPLE

A half hour later, after circling the environs of the city, the plane headed westward. Soon the drone of a passing motor was heard over Hubbards, thirty-five miles to the west of Halifax.

A plane went aloft from the airport here in an effort to sight the flier after he had headed west, but caught no sign of him.

Telephone Company officials reporting to the Canadian Press here were unable to trace the plane beyond Hubbards. Fog blanketed the coast at Shelburne, farther west and in the line of flight, and it would have been impossible for residents to sight it.

Pilot Mollison had evidently made better time across the Atlantic than he had expected in his "flying gasoline can." He had hoped to put the little plane down at Harbor Grace, Nfld., when he said good-bye to Amy Johnson, his bride of three weeks, and climbed aboard his plane at Port Marnock.

He did not stop at Harbor Grace, and his appearance over Halifax was timed less than a hour after the time for which his Harbor Grace stop had been scheduled.

RECORDED AS FIRST

It was the first westward solo crossing of the Atlantic by plane. Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh and Bert Hinkler, veteran Australian distance flier, and Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam are the only others who have crossed the Atlantic by air all alone. Col. Lindbergh flew alone from New York to Paris in 1927 and Hinkler crossed the South Atlantic in a Canadian-built Puss Moth plane last year. Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam crossed from Harbor Grace to Ireland this spring.

PLANE IS SMALL

Capt. Mollison's ship is a silvery grey Puss Moth, a tiny sport plane similar to that frequently used by the Prince of Wales for short trips. Pilot Mollison put so many tanks into it that he called it his "flying gasoline tank."

It is a high-wing monoplane with the name "Heart's Content" painted on the fuselage just below the cabin. The letters G-ABXY are painted in large letters on the fuselage aft of the wings.

The motor is a 120-horsepower Gypsy III.

WIFE HEARS REPORT

London, Aug. 19. — Amy Johnson, aviation record-holder and wife of Capt. J. A. Mollison, was seated at luncheon with friends in a West End hotel here to-day when word was brought to her that a plane like that in which her husband had started on his transatlantic round flight had been sighted over Halifax.

"Oh," she cried, "I'm sure it's Jim." But she was nervous.

She and her friends went upstairs to her suite, where confirmation was brought to her a few minutes later.

"Isn't it wonderful?" she said. "I knew Jim would do it. I feel much easier now. I know the return journey is not easy, but in comparison with the outward trip it isn't so bad. I don't know exactly what Jim's plans are. If he has enough fuel he may make for New York non-stop."

year, is confronted with the following facts, according to a statement issued:

In 1901 canners of the province requested the government to create a Department of Fisheries and agreed that if such a department were created and placed in charge of a recognized expert they would submit to a system of special taxation that would render the department self-supporting.

The government acceded to the request and asked the canners to nominate a commissioner of fisheries. The canners chose John P. Babcock, at that time an executive of the California Fish Commission and a recognized authority in hatchery propagation of salmon and a student of Pacific Coast salmon. He was brought to Victoria and has administered the department since.

NOTED AUTHORITY

The special tax imposed on canners has more than maintained the Department of Fisheries, it is pointed out.

Mr. Babcock's papers on oysters, pilchards, halibut and salmon are recognized publications among technical men throughout the world. He is chairman of the International Fisheries Commission, and has been appointed three times a member of a royal commission on B.C. fisheries by the federal government.

The halibut treaty recently signed by Canada and the United States was negotiated on behalf of this country by the Provincial Department of Fisheries, it was pointed out, and officials are agreed that $20,000 a year is well spent in this branch of provincial activities.

WILL DEBATE SERVICE COSTS

Mayor Leeming to-day. In this it is pointed out, that of a list of 208 names on Victoria's account "at least 37 per cent are questionable cases and the majority of these are Orientals, or persons whose address had presumably been uncertain, and the authorities had not been able to definitely state from what part of the province they had been admitted, and it would appear that they could hardly be a charge on the city of Victoria." Vancouver and New Westminster were said to be in a similar position.

WOULD SAVE CITY MONEY

Since Victoria's bill amounts to $3,000 a month, the elimination of one-third of the charges would save $1,000 a month for the city.

In the case of the mothers' pension contribution, the city reduced its bill by 40 per cent after careful investigation.

The action of the government in switching part of the cost of social services to the municipalities was criticized at length, since it did not reduce the burden of cost to the taxpayers, but merely lifted part of the burden from government finances to the shoulders of municipalities who derived revenue from direct taxation on property. In addition, it involved extra cost for administration and investigation by municipalities, making a duplication of work.

SUGGEST COMMITTEE

The delegates also discussed the method of leaving the final decision in connection with social service cases upon to the inspector of municipalities and it was suggested these matters should be placed in the hands of a representative of the municipality concerned, the provincial government and possibly a County Court judge, as a special committee.

After the conference the delegates visited the mental hospital at Essondale. The report of the two Victoria delegates, Mr. Snowden and Alderman Alex. Peden, on this inspection, will be filed later.

Alderman Peden and Mr. Snowden also visited the boys' and girls' industrial homes.

ATTEMPT ON WOMAN'S LIFE

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Her head badly cut, Mrs. J. J. Bradbury, East York, was rushed by police to a hospital here to-day.

Mrs. Bradbury was found in the bed of her apartment, her pillow saturated with blood and a blood-stained axe beside her.

Discovery of the badly injured woman was made by her young son, who had crept up to his mother's bedroom. The lad gave the alarm and police rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Bradbury evidently was reading in her bed when the assault was made. Blood stains were found in the bathroom, as though the assailant had gone there to wash his hands.

The woman's husband had left for work shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. He is employed by a local dairy.

MOLLISON IS TO TAKE REST

Says Immediate Return Atlantic Flight Too Great Strain

Pennfield Ridge, N.B., Aug. 19.—Pilot J. A. Mollison, who landed here to-day after a solo plane flight from Port Marnock, Ireland, said he would get away for New York to-morrow and would follow his original intention of flying back across the Atlantic. He would rest a few days in New York, however, before taking off. He feared returning immediately on the long, lonely hop, as previously planned, would be too much of a strain.

Trade agreements between Canada and South Africa, Canada and Australia, Canada and New Zealand (the two last modifying existing agreements), and Canada and Southern Rhodesia are ready for signing.

The conference does not make any specific recommendation on adoption of uniform Empire content, but each government is going to look further into the question after the conference rises with a view to consultation. During discussions, 50 per cent with exceptions upward and downward was suggested as a figure of uniform Empire content, but adoption of a uniform figure was found to involve too many difficulties and technicalities to permit decision at the present conference.

Each Commonwealth government, however, retains the right to make any change it considers necessary in its percentage of Empire content.

Conference Work At Ottawa Rushed

mands of both countries will ensue. As between Canada and the other dominions, little of a controversial nature has arisen, and the bi-laterals agreements with them have been easy to negotiate.

IRISH QUESTION

There remains now an extra-conference issue, one on which the attention of the particular delegates concerned has been rivetted for the last month. This is the Anglo-Irish problem. Here, again, the prospects for success, and with success the re-establishment of tranquil relations between the United Kingdom and the Free State, are very high.

One close to the conference observed to-day, "the Irish porker is smiling again." If the steadily persisting rumors are correct, then the "Irish porker" has good cause to smile, for those rumors have it that the question is already settled and awaits only the return home of Sean T. O'Kelly and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas for the benediction of the disputing governments.

TARIFF REMOVAL

It is probable agreement to agree will be the decision which Mr. O'Kelly and Mr. Thomas will make in Ottawa, and this will be followed by the almost immediate removal by both the United Kingdom and Ireland of their customs tariffs on each other's goods. Less embittered by this, the two governments will then work out the personnel of the tribunal which will hear whether the Free State should continue to collect and pay over to the United Kingdom the $15,800,000 annuities or not.

CHEMAINUS NOTES

On Monday evening the Chemainus Young People's Club held an evening outing at Kuper Island. Thirty-two young people were in the party. A beach fire was lighted and singing and amusements preceded a wiener roast. Although it was a lovely moon-light night, a severe electrical storm lighted up the water and country for miles around, but fortunately no rain fell.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Donald motored to Victoria on Tuesday, accompanied by Miss Daphne Barber-Starkey, who had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ross, Fuller's Lake, for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Howard of Victoria are guests of Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Howe.

Alexander Dunse of Vancouver spent the week-end with his family here.

Mrs. Robert Fetterly and her cousin, Miss Kathleen Dockrill of Vancouver, are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. A. Howe.

Advertising Increases Consumption of Basic Products

An instance of how advertising can help to increase the Canadian consumption of Canadian basic products is provided by the experience of the Canadian Shredded Wheat Co. Ltd. This company has just issued a series of advertisements to newspapers from coast to coast, urging the public to use their product—"Shredded Wheat"—not only because of the food value but also because by eating these golden brown biscuits they help the Canadian farmer, Shredded Wheat being made from the finest western grain.

Some idea of what this appeal to patriotism has meant in the domestic consumption of Canadian wheat is given by an official of the company.

"Since 1928 we have, in one way or another, been urging the public to use our product because by doing so, it is directly helping the Canadian farmer, and our records show the results," he said. "Several hundred thousand more Canadian families are using daily at least one ounce more of prepared Canadian wheat in the form of our biscuits than was the case five years ago. That represents a consumption of about 2,000,000 pounds more of Canadian wheat weekly from this source alone. (Work that out in terms of yearly consumption and you will find that it is a total which is worth considering.) We want to sell our product but we do feel that our success shows how industrial firms with the right sort of product can advertise to increase the country's consumption of basic products." ***

HOW COME?

To the Editor:—Our one-man government at Ottawa recently had an army of men taking the census. Outside of being required to display birthmarks our good wives certainly gave the boys the "dope." They were promised the information would be quite confidential. Oh dear. The newspapers also had news items from Ottawa to the effect that the information obtained would in no way be used to gouge the people for more money. Monday's Times. "House to house radio license canvass soon," and also states. "This is said to be about half of those owning radio sets." Mr. Editor, where do they get the information from?

While viewing the electrical storm I wonder why the "big shot" at Ottawa is deriving no revenue from the huge voltages, while I, poor red pimp, pay $2 a year for a

COLD UP THERE

Pending the examination of the instruments, he refused to say more than that he and his companion had reached a height of nearly 55,000 feet and encountered temperatures which were five degrees below zero fahrenheit inside the spherical alumanum gondola and 67 degrees below on the outside.

The instruments, as well as the Gondola itself, were taken to the Italian aviation school here. Prof. Piccard said they had not been harmed by the jar when the Gondola hit the ground, although the Gondola itself was dented a little by the impact.

STUDY COSMIC RAYS

Undoubtedly, he said, they would reveal very interesting information, especially on the effect of cosmic rays far above the earth's surface, the study of which was the principal reason he braved the stratosphere a second time.

Dr. Piccard and Cosyn were in the air yesterday about twelve hours. When the professor, forty-eight years old, lean, his head crowned by a shaggy mass of hair, and his twenty-five-year-old assistant, landed, Dr. Piccard stepped out of the porthole of the balloon gondola and tried to stand erect, but could not. He swayed, and only the crowd pressing about him kept him from falling. He placed an arm on the shoulder of a man nearby to steady himself.

"It's the difference between the intense cold up there and the intense heat down here," he explained running his hand across his forehead. "It was below zero up there."

The temperature on the ground was just over 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

It was stated the altitude reached was 16,700 metres, or 54,776 feet. On the professor's first flight last year the top height was 51,793 feet.

CHURCHILL'S EXPECTATIONS

Churchill, Man., Aug. 19.—Residents of Churchill turned to-day from observation of grain ship loading to discussion of a new visitor in the offing—sky-riding Prof. Auguste Piccard, who is planning to have his balloon and aluminum gondola carry him into the stratosphere from the rock-bound northwestrn shore of Hudson Bay.

Eskimos and Indians—but mostly ordinary, everyday pioneers—will be ready at Canada's new port if the scientist brings his balloon to the bay shore. Notables are no rarity at the settlement almost 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg which was founded two centuries ago by the Hudson's Bay Company as a fur trade post and brought into new being by the Canadian government as a sea port a year ago.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh created the greatest sensation of any visitors when they landed their low-wing monoplane on the broad harbor last fall in the shadow of the towering 2,500,000-bushel grain elevator, fastest grain-handling establishment in the world. But there have been British sea captains with their vessels, famed Canadian northland fliers, Dominion cabinet ministers, noted writers in search of material and scores of interesting characters visiting one of Canada's most glamorous places.

SUMMER OUTLOOK

At Churchill Prof. Piccard will find a busy settlement if his visit is between the months of July and November, when the port is preparing for overseas shipments or shipping is under way. Ice, which forms a heavy barrier across the mile-wide mouth of Churchill River in early November, is usually broken up and out in the waters of the bay by later July. At the present time a steamship from France is loading grain at Churchill and other vessels are on the incoming route for further cargoes.

The peak total of residents at Churchill has dropped from 1,200 at the time construction was at its height two years ago to the few hundred necessary to keep shipping in operation, with the over-winter crew restricted to two-score men or fewer who spend their spare time at bridge and trapping when their chores about the townsite are done.

BY "MUSKEG LIMITED"

Every facility will be offered Prof. Piccard in transporting his aluminum sphere to the bay port. From Winnipeg a regular train service is provided along the 450-mile line that runs to The Pas, thriving lumber and mining centre of Manitoba's north. From The Pas he will travel 512 miles northwest on the Canadian government's Hudson Bay Railway, on the semi-weekly train called "The Muskeg Limited" by the folk who reside in the scrub-dotted barrens.

Churchill, where the townsite is owned by the government of the province of Manitoba, has no hotels and no business establishments except a store and a pool room, but the government, whose men are employed in the maintenance of the harbor facilities, has available numerous residences and maintains a large commissary.

PLANE ENDURANCE FLIGHT BY WOMEN

Curtiss Field, N.Y., Aug. 19. — Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden approached a new endurance record for women in their "flying boudoir" to-day and indicated they would go right on flying for several days.

At 10 a.m., eastern standard time, to-day they had been in the air 116 hours.

The record is 122 hours. To set an official new record they must surpass the old one by at least an hour, which would be 5 p.m.

AGED BISHOP DIES IN OHIO

Rt. Rev. E. Cranston Labored to Reunite Methodist Episcopal Churches in U.S.

Associated Press

New Richmond, O., Aug. 19.—Bishop Earl Cranston, ninety-two-year-old dean of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died at his home near here yesterday evening after an illness of several months.

Rt. Rev. Earl Cranston strove to bring about reunion of his church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

He knew reunion would not come in his lifetime, but the thought did not depress or deter him, satisfied as he was in his belief he had helped lay the foundation.

"By and by," he foretold, "we shall coalesce, and there will be but one Methodism. If it shall have several administrative jurisdictions, that will be for the sake of efficiency only, not to meet the political or social requirements of a past century."

The oldest bishop of his church, Bishop Cranston was recognized in both north and south as the leader in the movement to unify the churches in the United States, divided in 1844 over the subject of slavery. As such, he was chairman of "the joint commission for the unification of Methodism."

But the merger movement was not his only work. He was a captain in the Union army in the civil war and later exercised a talent for business administration. In 1884 he became publishing agent of his church and general manager of the Methodist Book Concern. The publishing house was flagging then. He restored it to vigorous prosperity.

Elevated to the bishopric in 1896, he spent some years in the Orient.

In 1904 he was raised to resident bishop of Washington, D.C., where he remained until his retirement at the age of seventy-five, in 1916.

Bishop Cranston was born at Athens, O., June 27, 1840, the son of Earl Cranston and his wife, formerly Jane Montgomery.

His first wife, nee Martha A. Benham of Middleport, Ohio, died in 1872, leaving him a son, Earl Montgomery Cranston, now a lawyer. In 1874 he married Maura A. Martin at Jacksonville, Ill., and in 1905, two years after her death, he espoused Lucie M. Parker of Cincinnati. Three daughters were born to his second wife.

A. DYMOND OF TORONTO DIES

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Allan Dymond, for the last seven years chief electral officer of Ontario, died here yesterday after a brief illness.

For the last twenty-four years Mr. Dymond had been chief law clerk of the Ontario Legislature, having been appointed to that post in 1890.

JOB FOR EVERY MAN IS URGED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—"When the government undertakes to declare every able man shall have a job at living wages all our economic problems will be solved," declared Lieut.-Col. Nelson Spencer, M.P.P. for Vancouver, Conservative, addressing a service club here.

Lieut.-Col. Spencer said it would be necessary to appoint a commission which would have powers akin to those of the railway board for regulating and equalizing production and consumption.

No other solution of the depression was possible, he declared. Lieut.-Col. Spencer contended Canada and the United States should co-operate in this policy, but if the United States would not agree Canada should do it alone.

The old idea that all was not well unless everybody worked eight hours a day six days a week would have to be abandoned, he said.

If the cost of products for export was increased it could be met by subventions, which would not amount to more than an additional cost of 12½ per cent. Canada could afford this cost, he said, if every man were working for living wages and spending a normal amount in purchasing goods.

World Conference Early Next Year

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—With the Imperial Economic Conference nearing its end, eyes of British economic experts gathered here are already turning to the world economic conference in London. While no date has been set, it is expected the gathering will be called as soon after the United States presidential election as is practical, in late November at the earliest but more likely immediately after the New Year. It is considered that what has been accomplished in Ottawa gives a distinct and timely lead to world economic co-operation.

DOUKHOBORS STAGED FAST

Oakalla Prisoners Took No Food For Two Days, Say Officials

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—About half of the 348 Doukhobors held in Oakalla jail under sentence of three years' imprisonment for participating in nude demonstrations in the Nelson district early in the year went on a two-day fast this week. The fast presumably was held in sympathy with twenty of their sect who were taken last week to the prison colony being prepared by the federal government on Pier Island, north of the Saanich Peninsula.

"It was not a hunger strike," said a prison official. "They just did without food for two days, then started to eat again. We believe it was in sympathy with those who were taken away, but you can never tell; they give no explanations of their actions."

Of the 348 Doukhobors in Oakalla, 109 are women. Eventually all will be removed to the island colony to serve their sentences.

NO HITLERITE BERLIN MARCH

But Leader Says Nazis Will Be Biggest Group in New German Cabinet

Associated Press

Berechtesgaden, Bavaria, Germany, Aug. 19.—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's 13,700,000 National Socialists, declared yesterday he had no intention of marching on Berlin.

"Why should I," he said, "when I am there already? The question isn't whether I shall march on Berlin, but rather who will have to march out of Berlin."

High up in the Bavarian mountain, 107 miles from Munich, Hitler is calmly awaiting further political developments in the certainty that no matter what cabinet is established after the Reichstag meets August 30, his Nazis will have at least 75 per cent representation in the government.

RULES OF DEMOCRACY

"According to the rules of democracy," he said, "any party or group of parties commanding 51 per cent of the electorate can claim the right of having the entire government turned over to them.

"Our movement at the last elections won 37 per cent. This means that of the 51 per cent necessary for taking over the government we can furnish about 75 per cent.

"Let me put it in terms of business. We will supply 75 per cent of the capital to be invested in this business. Whoever furnishes the rest, whether the Reich President or the other parties, can supply the other twenty-five. That obvious means that our 75 per cent has a right and claim to leadership.

"Without us legal government in Germany is no longer possible. We can well afford to wait. I hold my safe position. I now have 13,700,000 behind me, and next time I shall have 14,000,000 to 15,000,000, and so on."

FRANCE CRITICIZED

"No understanding with France is possible so long as she treats us as she does now," said Hitler. "You cannot have reconciliation with a man who, as you lie helpless on the floor, tries to choke you."

It was here that Hitler, with a tired smile and a deprecatory gesture, put off any suggestion of a march on Berlin.

"We have strong positions, such as the Prussian Diet presidency, already, and will capture others, legally also," he said. "My storm troops are the best-disciplined body thinkable and will not attempt an illegal march."

TWO YOUNG MEN ARE SENTENCED

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Two young married men, unemployed for lengthy periods, were given reformatory terms instead of the customary penitentiary sentences here yesterday when they confessed to an armed hold-up. After covering a drug clerk with guns, the men walked out of the store without any money when the clerk told them he would lose his job if they robbed the place.

Sentencing Gordon S. Gadsby and Kenneth B. Linton, to eighteen months definite plus six months indeterminate in the Ontario reformatory, Magistrate R. J. Brown said: "I don't believe these men are vicious. They are foolish. No doubt the conditions of the times had something to do with it."

U.S. SENATOR IS FACING TRIAL

Associated Press

New York, Aug. 19.—United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania and six other persons are named in federal indictments returned yesterday, charging them with participating in lotteries promoted by fraternal organizations to raise charity funds.

The indictments resulted from an investigation of the alleged sale of lottery tickets by the Eagles, the Moose, Mystic Shriners and other organizations.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, who directed the investigation, declined "in advance of the trial" to comment on the amount of money involved, reported as high as $5,000,000.

Standardization Plans For Lumber

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Recommendations of the Imperial Conference for empire standardization of lumber have the full approval of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association. R. L. Sargant, secretary of the association, today said his organization was working closely with the Canadian Engineering Standards Association, and had been for some little time. The recommendation of the conference committee on economic co-operation for standardizing empire lumber, he said, had the support of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association.

DAIRY BUILDING BOMBED

Seattle, Aug. 19. — A bomb tossed against the side of the Green Pasture Dairy, a plant in the Rainier Valley district, yesterday evening nearly demolished the building, broke plate glass windows in nearby stores and rocked other structures for a block around. No one was in the building at the time, otherwise loss of life might have occurred, police said.

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

ANOTHER FEATHER GOES INTO THE cap of Captain J. A. Mollison, Britain's noted long-distance flyer, who landed his Baby Puss Moth monoplane at Pennfield Ridge, N.B., at noon to-day after being thirty hours and ten minutes in the air and covering about 2,700 miles. He had planned to stop at Harbor Grace in Newfoundland, but passed it by in the hope that he would be able to reach New York without a stop. He explains why: "I was so tired that I just couldn't go on."

There are some unique features about this remarkable flight. It is the first time the Atlantic has been flown solo from east to west, the first time that the Atlantic has been flown either way in such a small machine. Indeed the machine is so small that its pilot has trouble pushing his shoulders through the cabin door. It weighs little more than a ton and it is similar to the one the Prince of Wales uses for sport and to those used by other British amateur flyers. Every scrap of interior furnishing had been removed to make room for gasoline—and for thirty hours Mollison sat on a metal stool with his back against a newly-installed forty-six-gallon tank. Indeed, he had great difficulty in persuading the Air Ministry to permit him to make the flight in a craft such as he used; he succeeded only when he agreed to strengthen the wings and sacrifice everything else for gasoline accommodation. Small wonder he was tired out. Incidentally, Captain Mollison's objective was a round trip from Ireland to New York and back in less than three days.

This intrepid aviator established a new record for the journey from England to Cape Town last March, when, in a similar machine, he covered the distance in four days and seventeen hours. His wife, the former Amy Johnson, it will be remembered, was the first woman to fly alone to Australia—a feat which won her fame and fortune, as well as a husband. So the Mollisons to-day, particularly the husband, of course, will be acclaimed by all airmen and airwomen and the public generally.

TORONTO THE GOOD'S LATEST THRILLER

AN OTTAWA DISPATCH TO THE Times yesterday said that Dan Malone, Toronto Irishman, who became a subject of police interest when he was suspected of designs on the life of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, will not be deported, the Dominion Minister of Immigration having ruled that Malone may remain in Canada. As a result of the Minister's ruling, Malone will be given his liberty. This in turn means that not only is there no evidence to show that he meditated the annihilation of Mr. Thomas, but that he is not even a "dangerous Red."

The Malone incident has provided The Ottawa Journal, an independent Conservative newspaper of high standing and influence in the east, with fuel for a satirical leading article at the expense of Toronto, its police and some of its newspapers. The Journal shows how The Toronto Globe and The Toronto Mail and Empire—both of whom metaphorically peer under their beds every night with flashlights in the expectation of discovering a Communist with a bomb—vied with one another in screaming to the world the announcement that one Dan Malone, a desperate Sinn Feiner, had decided to remove the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas from this troubled sphere. The Toronto Mail and Empire, however, scored first honors by publishing in detail a notice alleged to have been sent out by Major-General J. H. MacBrien, Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, giving a description of Malone, describing him as a desperate character and reporting his determination to shoot Mr. Thomas.

The Journal, which ought to know, observes that no such notice was sent out from Ottawa, and that nobody at the national capital ever had heard of Malone. Major-General MacBrien declared that he was as much mystified as anybody else. It then was disclosed that the circular originated with a "Communist expert" on the Toronto police force. Meanwhile, the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas was proceeding merrily to the opening ceremonies of the Welland Canal, en route playing bridge with the two well-known Sinn Feiners, Sean O'Kelly and Sean Lemass, the Irish Free State's delegates to the Imperial Conference.

Malone was arrested by the Toronto police, but having got him the authorities did not know what to do with him. They had not the slightest evidence against him, but thought that they would be made to look less foolish if he were deported on general principles. But the Minister of Immigration has found that there is not even enough information to the detriment of Malone to order him deported, which means he must be almost one hundred per cent all right, for Ottawa is rather hair-trigger in its deportation orders these days. The Globe and The Mail and Empire became strangely quiet on the subject. The incident moves The Journal to make this comment: "Poor, quaint Toronto. Do its sensible people—and it has lots of them—ever wonder why most of us get amusement from its comicalities, and particularly from the comic capers of its quaint newspapers?"

The Malone affair, while funny enough to most people and particularly to the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, can not have been funny to Malone, and may have a rather costly consequence for some. In the meantime Toronto has a characteristically new preoccupation in the condemnation of a picture in the nude by one of Canada's greatest artists which has been submitted for display in the Canadian National Art Exhibition Gallery. The artist, who is exhibiting twelve other pictures, threatens to withdraw all of them unless this particular work—which won high honors in Paris—is permitted to be hung. In many ways Toronto is still Fort York.

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES

MANY PEOPLE IN CANADA NO doubt are wondering why the United Kingdom delegation at the Ottawa Conference is reluctant to give way to the Canadian delegation in regard to imports from Russia. In a dispatch to the Southam Press, Mr. Lukin Johnston, special correspondent in London and formerly of Victoria and Vancouver, recites some of the difficulties facing the British Government.

As to wheat, Mr. Johnston points out that if Russian wheat were barred from Britain, not only would world prices—with which Canada must compete for two-thirds of her wheat exports—be affected, but British poultrymen would be cut off from an important source of cheap feed. Then into the picture come the British millers, who wield a very powerful influence, and who would be up in arms at the handicap imposed on them—unless measures were taken at the same time to keep out Canadian flour. We quote Mr. Johnston in regard to lumber:

> As to Russian competition with Canadian timber, it is regarded here as extremely doubtful whether Canada can place herself in a position to supply Britain's requirements for several years to come. In time it is admitted that this position may be reached, but meanwhile prices for urgently needed building timber would be forced up.

Other important factors which are constantly in the minds of the British delegates at Ottawa are the orders for machinery and other goods which Russia is ready to place with Great Britain, and the effect upon the unemployment situation if the apparently definite prospect of this new business were dashed to the ground by any treaty drastically discriminating against the Soviet. Mr. Johnston's dispatch dealing with these aspects of the situation says:

> There would also be strong opposition to action by the British Government which would jeopardize important trade of the Midland industrial districts in machinery and machine tools. It was stated last night at the Manchester Trades Council that Russia was anxious to place orders for $50,000,000 worth of machinery and electrical equipment if export credits were made more freely available for Russian trade. Though this figure may be exaggerated it is stated that if Russian trade in the Midlands were cut off 30,000 British workers would be thrown out of employment.
> On the grounds of "high policy," which may not be so generally understood in Canada, it is probably constantly in the minds of British delegates that raising of obstacles to trade with Russia must have the dangerous effect of throwing enormous potential trade into the hands of Germany, whose factories are the most highly efficient in Europe. Such development might have reactions highly damaging to British interests, by tending to throw Germany and Russia into closer political relations and strengthening the already powerful Communist movement in Germany.

There exists in Great Britain an influential organization known as the Russo-British Chamber of Commerce, and this body recently sent a delegation to the British Board of Trade to seek more favorable trade conditions. Certain credits have been absorbed and no new ones created to replace them. The result is, according to the delegation's contention, millions of pounds worth of orders have gone to other markets where more credit is available to finance Soviet business.

The Business Week of New York, an unusually well-informed financial journal with correspondents all over the world, refers to the Russo-British Chamber of Commerce and says one of its representatives returned to Britain three weeks ago, declaring "that for every Englishman of responsible position who visited the Soviet Union, there were probably fifty Germans and twenty Americans." This delegate urged British manufacturers to go to Russia to find out what the Soviet needs in the way of equipment Britain can produce. In other words, fully realizing the size of the unemployed list in the United Kingdom, its delegation at Ottawa naturally is obliged to study what is requested of it from the broadest possible standpoint.

They seem to be speeding things up a bit in Chicago while Mayor Anton Cermak is holidaying in his native Czechoslovakia. A twenty-year-old junior college student is reported to have invented a device which he claims will convert an ordinary shotgun into a death-dealing weapon capable of shooting its customary ammunition at the rate of 400 shots a minute—and has pledged himself to keep it from gangsters and criminals. We rather like this assurance. But what would Al Capone and his tribe not have given for such a device when the racket was at its peak? Fancy Scarface having to mess about in a shoe repairing shop in the penitentiary when there is a weapon like this for use!

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SCREENING BILLBOARDS

Editor and Publisher

Unanimous decision of the New York Court of Appeals recently ruled that the state cannot be prevented from building screens on highway property to hide billboards that are considered unsightly or distracting to drivers. The case grew out of controversy over a billboard erected at the approach to the mid-Hudson Bridge, at Poughkeepsie. State authorities, indignant at the location of the sign, built a decorative screen in front of it, but were forced by injunction to remove it. The present decision reverses lower courts.

THE COMMON TONGUE

The Fredericton Mail

Even the most illiterate quote Shakespeare every day. Indeed most of us do not know we should use quotations for these current sayings from the Bard of Avon's writings:

"Dead as a doornail; eaten out of house and home; as good luck would have it; mad as a March hare; a snake in the grass; a woman will not tell what she does not know; birds of a feather; care killed a cat; cake is dough; every dog has his day; fast bind, fast find; every man to his trade; familiarity breeds contempt; good wine needs no bush; make hay while the sun shines; past cure past care; pitchers have ears; poor and proud; sink or swim; speak by the card; the world on wheels; we burn daylight; woo in haste and wed at leisure; give the devil his due; and what the dickens!"

Loose Ends

An important yachting party—a discovery on our Island—a dangerous candidate—and a shocking idea.

By H. B. W.

SOME OF the Kidd committeemen arrived here the other day by private yacht from Vancouver, exuding civic virtue and an air of ripe prosperity, to demand that the government cut everybody's salary and all other expenses to the bone. While there is yet time to consider the matter, before the committee's report is published and the inevitable ballyhoo begins, let us get a few things clearly in our mind. Then we shall be able to examine the committee's report with a reasonable perspective and an unprejudiced mind. Let us remember, then, that some of those elements which gave birth to the Kidd committee are the same which gave birth to our present financial position, which are largely responsible for getting the province into such a jam that the Kidd committee is considered necessary to get it out again. The Kidd committee recommends the scrapping of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, but it was the same interests that sponsored the P.G.E. project in the first place, that insisted on it being completed, that were demanding less than a year ago that British Columbia build the railway on to the Peace River.

IT WAS those same elements that harassed and bullied every government which ever held office here to spend more and ever more money, to float huge loans for roads, to construct a parallel pair of super highways up either side of the Fraser River and to undertake a lot of other road schemes, which, happily for the taxpayers, the various governments had enough sense to reject. Those elements, in fact, have largely been in charge of provincial government for years, and now they are coming here with green horror in their eyes to blame the politicians, who only did what they wanted. And I venture to predict that when their report is published it will be found that while they got us into this jam, they propose that we shall get out by cutting the small man's salary, the education of the young and the care of the unfortunate.

IT OCCURS to me that I haven't been fair to our Island of late and I feel sure our Island, which hangs on my every word, must feel pretty badly about it. I have come back from the interior and written reams of bilge about the glories of the Dry Belt and the mighty Fraser Canyon, and never a word of appreciation for the splendors at our own door. Well, I had full cause for penitence and conversion to-day. A photographer friend of mine, whose photographs go all over the world, came to see me, and I drove him about the Island so that he could get some new "shots." I confess I was amazed to find what there is here, all unsuspected by most of us, what spectacles that we pass by almost every day and scarcely ever notice.

MY PHOTOGRAPHER friend went quite insane about our Island. He made gorgeous pictures of the immemorial oaks of the Uplands golf course, their tangled trunks black against the sunset; of the Olympics between the trees of Beacon Hill Park (shortly to be cut down, no doubt, because they were not planted by boulevard experts); of the sea glimmering beside the road to Sooke; of the Sooke Hills across a field of yellow stubble, with the grain piled ready for threshing; of that blue sweep of Saanich Arm with the green farms of Salt Spring Island at its end, and fishing boats no bigger than toys down below you; of the round knob of Mount Finlayson, above Goldstream, with a little farm hugging its side, the sea beneath and back of all the grim white line of the Olympics, which is quite the finest view I have ever seen, and yet is passed unnoticed by hundreds of motorists every day as they hurry down from the Malahat.

IT OCCURRED to me also that the stretch of road along Goldstream is perhaps the loveliest in British Columbia, with its great trees, its glimpses of fern-covered rocks, and the gleam of sun on running water, but no one pays any attention to it. We all rush by it at a terrific speed now that the road has been improved, and it is taken as a matter of course. If you suggested to a Victorian that he could see as fine a piece of roadside scenery twelve miles from his house as he could by traveling a thousand miles, he would think you were merely a prejudiced Little Islander. I think it has something to do with the automobile. I question that anyone can appreciate scenery in a machine. The two don't seem to go together. The blight of the machine is heavy over our whole civilization and on the individual soul as well. It is the kind of blight which causes men to drive wildly for days on end to see sights not half as good as those at home, and which they will forget two minutes after they have seen them. They will be too busy going somewhere else in their machines.

NORMAN THOMAS, the Socialist candidate for the presidency of the United States, whose views on the details of government need not concern us for the moment, has lately stated an overshadowing truth; so overshadowing, indeed, that no one will pay any attention to it, so vital to everybody that it will never be heard of in the presidential campaign now under way. He said: "Never yet has any civilization endured with no philosophy but a superficial pragmatism. Success is our God, measured in terms of money. We have no moral standards to which to appeal in our warfare against the underworld. What is it that Socialism offers? In the first place, a philosophy, a social vision, a loyalty adequate to the realities of the interdependent world which the machine age has imposed upon us. Not a detailed programme, important as it is, but a new faith. Once there is a collective will for action, once men care enough for some social idea, a lot of impossibilities melt away."

WHAT SOCIALISM really offers, I have no idea, though I dare say Mr. Thomas is prejudiced in its favor. But it is certain that socialism or something else has got to offer us a new idea, a new faith and a new philosophy pretty soon or, as Mr. Thomas says, things just can't go on. No civilization has endured without a foundation of that sort, without a belief among its members in something more important than the gold standard and the balance of trade. And at the moment we haven't any such notions. As a civilization we have no faith in anything of that kind, very little even in the gold standard and the balance of trade. Mr. Thomas may advocate such things, but he is only a poor misguided radical who may get a million votes, if he is lucky. No candidate who really thought of getting elected would ever mention the subject. I mean, imagine Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt campaigning on any issue but money, on any programme but material prosperity for everyone. Imagine any man in any country getting elected on anything so intangible as a new faith; Imagine what the electorate would do to a man who proposed to trust on God Almighty and follow the theories of Christianity! What western peoples want is something entirely different. They want prosperity and they don't care a hoot how they get it or at whose expense.

BUT THE proof of the pudding, as Mr. Thomas says, is in the eating. Even when we had the greatest prosperity on record in 1928 and 1929 as a race we weren't in the least happy. We were merely more excited. Even when prosperity returns again we shall not be happy. We shall merely be faster and more foolish.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
AUGUST 19, 1907
(From The Times Files).

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Northerly winds, fine and warm to-day and Tuesday.

This morning A. T. Goward was interviewed with regard to the statement made by this paper on Saturday that the B.C. Electric Railway Company was about to extend its Douglas Street line to Oak Bay.

A baseball team composed of the following local players journeyed to Nanaimo yesterday to try conclusions with the local team: F. Moore, P. B. Robertson c, B. Blackbourne 1b, H. Herd 2b, Shanks 3b, McLimoyl lf, Clark cf, Morrison (Ladysmith) rf. The local boys were defeated by a score of 10 to 2. For Nanaimo Miller and Smith made a very effective battery. F. Gouge acted as umpire.

The steamer Persident of the Pacific Steamship Company sailed from the Outer Wharf last evening on her way to San Francisco. She carried 417 passengers, of whom sixty-three joined the vessel at this port.

Completing her record trip across the Pacific and nearly equaling the fastest passage ever made by one of the company's steamers, the C.P.R. steamer Empress of India reached port at 8.45 yesterday morning from China and Japan. The actual steaming time occupied on the trip was ten days ten hours and seventeen minutes from Yokohama to William Head quarantine station. This is only three hours behind the fastest time ever made on the run from Canada to the Orient, the record being made by the Empress of Japan over ten years ago.

PENDER ISLAND HAD FINE FAIR

Pender Island, Aug. 19.—Ideal weather, a good attendance, and excellent exhibits, on Wednesday combined to make Pender Island's first agricultural and industrial show an overwhelming success. The fair was held in Hope Bay Hall, and attracted many people from adjacent islands, the Saanich Peninsula and Victoria. Capt. M. F. Macintosh, M.P.P., opened the show.

The exhibits compared favorably with those of other districts, and the executive was congratulated by the judges upon the excellent arrangement and display. Mrs. McMurdo judged the women's section, and E. W. White, provincial horticulturist, made the awards in the agricultural section.

During the afternoon a game of softball, between Mayne Island and local teams, was played on the field of the Athletic Association, and resulted in a win for the locals, the score being 21 to 17. Fred M. McGregor, of Victoria, refereed. Other attractions included a shooting gallery and a merry-go-round. Tea was served by members of the Women's Institute, and in the evening a dance was held, the music being supplied by P. Georgeson of Saturna. This proved one of the jolliest affairs enjoyed by the younger set for some time, many of the visitors having remained over for this part of the programme.

The committee in charge of the fair, who were warmly congratulated on their first effort include: H. H. Kirk, secretary; V. W. Menzies, Mrs. F. Moore and Mrs. A. H. Menzies.

EW RADIO MODELS OUT

ilco Sets Offer Notable Improvements, H. J. Cunningham Announces

The new Philco models for the sea- n 1932-33 are now in the hands of ctoria dealers, having been introiced this week by H. J. Cunningham, al representative of Radio Sales rvice Limited, British Columbia disibutors of Philco Radio.

The Philco line has been lengthed, the sets have been tremendously iproved with more and more impornt exclusive patented features built to them. Another of the famous hilco "X" models has been brought it, prices have been lowered, and the binets have been almost unbelievly beautified.

"As far as Philco is concerned," said r. Cunningham, "the so-called deession has been totally disregarded so far as confidence, aggressiveness, id general policies are concerned. The ly concession that the company ade to the depression was the creion of extraordinary values so that e are making better sets to-day and fering them for less money than ever fore in the history of the entire radio dustry."

In the new Philco sets there are ore new and important developents than were ever incorporated in radio receiver before. There has not een a single "gadget" added for sales allyhoo; but all are incorporated for it the one prime factor—performance.

The most important single improvent is shadow tuning, which enables e owner to tune by sight instead of und. Tuning a radio receiver is ke tuning a kettledrum, very few eople can tune either one absolutely, ut shadow tuning makes it easily posble for anybody to tune a Philco dio to a hairline of accuracy and rfection. The reason or explanation simply this: All broadcasting staons vary at times from their asgned frequencies or correct channel umbers on your radio dial. With the ceiving capacity and the selectivity f radio sets so tremendously increased, bsolute tuning becomes more and ore difficult. That is, tuning by ar alone; but Philco's shadow tuning ts the operator see instantly whether e correct spot on the dial is exctly on the line of the channel numer, or a little to one side or the ther of it. The "shadow" is conolled by the station power and when comes down to its narrowest width, hether exactly on the channel numer or not, that is where reception ill be brought in clear, crisp and rue. Many radio owners formerly ad difficulty in tuning, particularly ets using automatic volume control. low their tuning troubles are over hanks to Philco's shadow tuning.

UTOMATIC SILENCER

Another decided improvement is aumatic silencing of radio noises beween stations as the dial is turned rom one station to another. This automatic, there is no added conrol to complicate operation, and it s a distinct contribution to radio enoyment as was automatic volume conrol, which was also a development of hilco engineers. This new automatic uning silencer makes it possible to urn the dial through the entire scale, rom top to bottom, without bringing n static or other objectionable noises, ften so aggravating in the past.

The new Philco models also have win speakers. Contrary to the genrally accepted theory, Philco engineers ave proved that, in the case of twin peakers, one should not be tuned to arry the high notes, and the other to arry the low notes. It is a reasonable ounding theory, but Philco engineers easoned that we can see with one ye and we can hear with one ear, but we need two eyes for depth roundess and perspective in sight, just as e need two ears for depth and fullness of sound and hearing. Exhausive experiment and scientific measurenent of sound show that two speakers roperly used give to radio, tone, roundness and relief, or perspective, hat is impossible with a single peaker. Something akin to the old tereoscope, which through its twin enses, made people, trees and buildngs stand out from the background in a plain flat photograph. Using the tereoscope twin lens arrangement the icture gain depth. However, one lens s not used for the high lights, while he other is used for the shadows of he picture, any more than one eye icks out the high lights and the other he shadows. Therefore, it is phonetically wrong to set one speaker for igh tones and the other for the low tones because when this is done there s a conflict between the speakers and hey have a tendency to nullify the ound waves released by each other.

INCLINED SOUNDING BOARD

More models featuring the inclined sounding board, a Philco patented feature, have been added this year. The inclined sounding board is another monument to Philco genius in the reproduction of sound and was first introduced at the beginning of this year and has proved a tremendous improvement and success. Philco engineers learned that to purify sound it must be poured "uphill." The explanation is this: The waves which sound the high notes are like short waves and travel in straight lines as they come from the loudspeaker. They are slow to spread out and unless directed upwards into the field of hearing of the listener will only partially reach the ear. In fact, some of them will be lost and smothered in the floor covering. By tilting the sounding board and the loudspeakers these high notes are carried directly into the field of hearing of the listener and are reproduced. The sound then takes on all the "brilliance" of the original. The lack of brilliance in tone has been one of the outstanding faults of radio reproduction formerly. On the opposite end of the scale of tone the added weight size and rigidity of the sounding board gives the full roundness and richness to the low tones, making for a complete balance of tone throughout the entire musical register.

Philco has improved its famous dynamic speaker. The cone of the new speaker is of lighter, more flexible, extremely sensitive material. The rim and the cone are pressed in one piece so no heavy rim or glued joint restrict the responsive action. The result is the sound is reproduced with all the fidelity of tone of the original with all its fine modulations.

Another improvement is the Philco floating chassis. This is to radio what floating power is to the automobile and was made necessary, as in the automobile field, by tremendously increased power. Radio sets became so powerful that the whole set vibrated. Vibrations from the loudspeaker were transmitted back through the wood of the cabinet to the vital circuit parts of the chassis causing audio-feedback, with resulting microphonic howling and distortion. Now the heavy Philco chassis and tuning condensers ride smoothly and freely on their rubber cushions and shock absorbers and are entirely freed from the influence of any amount of speaker and cabinet vibrations.

These are but a few of the most outstanding improvements that are features of the new Philcos for 1933. The new high-efficiency tubes mean that for a given number of tubes Philco sets use less current from your light circuit than any other set of the same number of tubes ever offered before, and all this with no sacrifice in over-all efficiency of the sets themselves.

One other point that might well be mentioned at this time is that most broadcasting stations of the better class have been remarkably improved during the course of the past few months. But to take full advantage of these marked improvements in broadcasting itself, it is necessary to have a set that incorporates all these later improvements to reproduce the increased range of frequencies now broadcast by these stations, as most sets of even a year or so ago cannot properly reproduce this increased range of tone.

Pimples Itched So Could Not Sleep. Healed by Cuticura.

"Tiny pimples formed under my skin, later breaking out and turning red. My forehead, chin and back were affected. Later the pimples became hard and large, and itched and burned sometimes so that I could not sleep. I had them for over a year.

"I tried four different remedies which only seemed to make the pimples worse. I sent for free samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Susie Wurtz, Hythe, Alta., Aug. 12, 1931.

ONE MAN, ONE WIFE

Cairo, Aug. 19.—The Emperor of Abyssinia has advanced a proposal to do away with a custom that has stood for centuries. Although a Christian country, all that was necessary to wed in the past was to approach a girl and recite, "In the name of Menelik, I claim thee as my wife." There was no limit to the number of wives to be had under the old rule. The proposal of the emperor, however, to limit a man to one wife, is meeting with disapproval.

DELEGATES ARE DINNER HOSTS

Rt. Hon. Stanley and Mrs. Baldwin Give Dinner and Dance; 1,800 Guests

By KATHLEEN DILLON
Canadian Press Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—On behalf of the United Kingdom delegation to the Imperial Conference, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, and Mrs. Baldwin entertained at dinner yesterday evening in honor of Premier R. B. Bennett and members of the Canadian cabinet and their wives.

The function was held in the Quebec suite of the Chateau Laurier and was followed by a reception attended by 1,800 people. The table was set with yellow linen and antique silver vases filled with pale yellow chrysanthemums and antique silver holders with pale yellow tapers. Covers were laid for forty-seven.

Mrs. Baldwin wore a striking costume of black and silver brocade with touches of green and lacquer. She wore pearl jewelry and black and silver shoes.

Following the dinner the reception, by Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin was held in the ballroom suite. The attractive drawing-room was gay with summer flowers and dancing was enjoyed in the ballroom. The banquet hall of the Chateau was used for sitting out and the terrace for strolling. At midnight a buffet supper was served in the main dining-room and in the Jasper room, the tables being adorned with vases of cut flowers.

LOVELY GOWNS.

Viscountess Hailsham was charming in flesh pink chiffon, with a pink ostrich feather fan, pearls and pink shoes. Mrs. J. H. Thomas was in sapphire blue velvet, simply designed. Mrs. Walter Runciman wore a royal blue satin gown, the bodice fashioned over creao. Her ornaments were pearls. Lady Newton wore a stunning frock of blue ninon combined with gold tinsel, and blue shoes. Mrs. Stanley M. Bruce wore a handsome gown of black and silver lace. Mrs. H. S. Gullett chose a dainty black lace gown over black and pearl ornaments.

Mrs. A. E. V. Richardson of Australia wore a blue gown cut on long lines of embossed velvet chiffon with the bodice of sheer material. Mrs. A. P. F. Fourie, wife of the Minister of Mines and Industries in South Africa, was lovely in black georgette and silver. Mrs. E. M. Saunders of South Africa was in a frock of gold brocade on graceful lines. Mrs. F. C. Alderdice, wife of the Prime Minister of Newfoundland, was becomingly gowned in pistachio gold lace, with a pearl necklace and earrings.

Lady Chatterjee was smart in a delphinium blue lace dress, with Indian jewelry. The Begum Haroon was an outstanding figure in a pink sari embroidered with gold and Indian jewelry. Miss Doulat Haroon was lovely in a green cut velvet sari with pearl jewels.

Miss Mary Downie Stewart, sister of the Minister of Finance and Customs for New Zealand, wore a graceful black satin gown. Mrs. G. Craig of New Zealand wore a frock of sace blue embroidered in pink and gold with a smart silver tinsel coat.

Mrs. H. C. Havenga of the Union of South Africa, wife of the Minister of Finance, wore a pink frock embroidered in gold and silver. Mrs. P. G. W. Grobler of South Africa, wife of the Minister of Mines and Industries, wore a smart frock of gold lace over green with diamond ornaments.

World Traveler And Psychologist Speaks Tuesday

A distinguished traveler and lecturer, Mrs. Laura Waples McMullen, of Chicago, will address a public meeting at the Empress Hotel private dining-room on Tuesday evening, August 23, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. McMullen will arrive from China on Tuesday and will speak on her impressions of the Orient. As she is an economist, psychologist and warm advocate of international understanding, her address promises to be of unusual interest. She was one of the outstanding speakers at the annual convention of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the United States at Richmond, Va., last year, when her address made a profound impression on the 2,000 delegates. Since then she has been much sought after by educational institutes, service and women's clubs, the universities of Colorado, Nevada and Utah, and at various forums, and the Victoria Club feels it a distinct privilege to secure this popular and gifted speaker for Tuesday evening.

Tickets for the affair may be obtained of club members or at the Empress Hotel.

SUNSHINE CAMP AND TAG DAY

To-morrow's Appeal By Social Service League Will Assist Work For Needy

A four-year-old youngster at the Sunshine Camp, while being prepared for bed, asked: "Mother, who gave this bed and blankets and pillows and these sheets?" His mother explained that a kind friend provided them, whereupon the child replied: "I hope that friend will always be here to give more presents."

The Social Service League is that "kind friend" who has provided the equipment whereby this child and many others have been able to spend a happy and comfortable holiday. The Sunshine Camp has been a steady drain on the league's funds, which must be replenished in order that such pleas may be fulfilled.

By responding generously to the tag day to be held to-morrow the people of Victoria will enable the Social Service League to continue its work in the role of a friend to those in need. Each day brings a new incident which reveals another sign of appreciation for the work done by the league.

Applications for camp are still coming in daily. The league plans to operate the camp until the middle of September.

More taggers are required for to-morrow and the league would greatly appreciate any assistance. Taggers' headquarters will be at 621 Fort Street and Mrs. Walter Parry is acting as convener.

Nanaimo Couple Wed Yesterday St. Paul's Church

Nanaimo, Aug. 19. — At St. Paul's Church at noon yesterday, Rev. Canon Hazelhurst united in marriage Dorothy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kilner, Albert Street, to Mr. Thomas Bentley, only son of Mrs. T. Terry of Vancouver and the late James Bentley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an ankle-length frock of eggshell satin, made in silhouette style, with lace jacquette. She wore a veil of lace with tight-fitting cap of orange blossoms and carried a sheath of lilies and maidenhair ferns. The bride's only ornament was a silver necklace, which was worn by her great-grandmother on her wedding day. She was attended by Miss Irene Willis, and the groom was supported by Mr. Don Kilner, brother of the bride. During the signing of the register Miss Lily MacDonald sang very sweetly "Because."

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride, Albert Street, where a large number of friends and relatives assembled to pay their wishes to the happy couple, the rooms being decorated with pale pink and white streamers and summer flowers. A dainty buffet luncheon was served from a prettily-appointed table decorated with a silver bowl of shaded pink asters and centred with a three-tiered weding cake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bentley left for Vancouver, where their honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in an eggshell flat crepe ensemble, with nigger brown coat trimmed with eggshell. Upon their return they will reside on Gillespie Street.

Horoscope

SATURDAY, AUGUST 20, 1932

According to astrology this is an unfortunate day in planetary direction. Play instead of work may be safer for the cautious.

Danger of accidents in travel by railway or motor car is foretold. Explosions are forecast and these may not all be unplanned.

Although it is wise to desert the marts of trade to-day there may be perils in social contacts, for disagreements may be numerous.

The planetary government is not fortunate for political candidates of any party, since factional feuds will be widespread all through the next few weeks.

Association with men and women of prominence may be especially unsatisfactory while this configuration continues. Egotism may be too freely unveiled.

Women to-day should be extraordinarily cautious. Home is the safest place for even those most ambitious for public tributes.

Romance may be most disappointing under this planetary government, which encourages men to be exceedingly vague in their wooing and loth to make definite covenants.

This is a time when the mind may be open to whatever is depressing and the spirit of criticism may be strong. Activity that is helpful to someone is the best panacea under this rule of the stars.

Writers should profit under this planetary government, which seems to promise fame to authors, who have been much obscured by more fortunate men and women.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of impulsive decisions and rather ill-advised acts. It is well to be careful in choosing friends.

Children born on this day probably will be ambitious and persistent in obtaining whatever they desire. The subjects of this sign usually are industrious and far-seeing.

Benjamin Harrison, twenty-third President of the United States, was born on this day, 1833. Others who celebrated it were: French dramatist, younger brother of Pierre Corneille, noted poet, and Valentine Mott, 1785, noted American surgeon.

Bold Cricketeers Storm Wicket While Tea And Crumpets Reign

By ROBERT GRANDON

Just back from balancing a saucer and nibbling a toasted crumpet, the while I viewed a cricket contest, cheering lustily the while with "Well Bowled, Karloff!" and judicious hand clappings . . . Quite blotto is ole Bob Grandon just now from it all, waiting to-morrow, when the second section of the game is to be played.

Cricket has come to Hollywood with a bang . . . Boris (He Frightens Little Children) Karloff long a devotee went at it hammer and tongs after "Frankenstein" . . . for he is an Englishman . . . and Colin Clive and other sturdy Britishers laid aside their spoons and took up a bat . . . for they are Englishmen, each and every one, and it's greatly to their credit, don't che' knaw.

Ronald (Mysterious) Coleman has been another leader, as has Clive Brook, Paul Cavanaugh is another devotee, and Lawrence Oliver yet another . . . When Ronnie, and Paul, get into a contest, pro and con, you have to watch out not to get them scrambled, for they're dead ringers . . . In fact, Larry is spoken of as a second Coleman.

Ralph (Along-Went-Ruth) Forbes steps down from his high horse and discards his polo mallet to toss at a wicket, and Aubrey Smith not only plays but coaches as well . . . Karloff and his gang are just back from a series of matches in San Francisco and Oakland, where the Hollywood cricket team is well recognized.

It's a cinche that polo will continue to hold its place . . . But cricket is stepping right along with this advantage . . . it demands no stable . . . and in thes days of depression, that's a big factor.

Are you worried about your child's future? Robert Grandon's Horoscope leaflet may contain some good advice. Write for it enclosing three cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

COMPLEMENTARY FORMULA FURNISHES ONLY PART OF BABY'S NEEDS

When the baby is being nursed and bottle fed, the mother must have some idea of the quantities he receives from the breast. Otherwise there is no way of determining the probable amounts he will take by bottle.

It is possible to get a very good idea of the amount of milk a baby receives at any nursing by weighing him before and after nursing. This demands, of course, an accurate scales. The increase in weight after nursing is the amount he has just nursed. Comparing this total with the amounts a baby of his age can take at any feeding will give the mother a measuring rod for the complementary feeding. This is all explained in my leaflet, "Complementary Feedings," which any mother may obtain by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request to me in care of this newspaper.

REFUSES FEEDINGS

Mrs. M. V. calls her baby appetiteless because she refuses to accept all of the bottle feeding offered her. She continues: "My baby eats well for two or three weeks; then stops and eats hardly anything. She weighed five pounds at birth, weighs sixteen now and is nearly nine months old. She is both breast and bottle fed.

"She takes nothing but her milk. I have not started to feed her. Her first formula was thirty ounces of milk, ten of water and six tablespoons of sugar. But after a week or so she refused to take very much of this and the doctor reduced it to twenty-six ounces of milk. Later he again reduced it to twenty-two ounces of milk with water and sugar. Sometimes she will take six ounces at a feeding, but most of the time she only wants three ounces, though she seems hungry for that. Can you tell me what is the trouble?"

ADJUST FORMULA

It is hardly possible to tell you how much milk formula the child needs because you do not know how much nourishment she is getting from you.

These are my suggestions. Prepare fifteen ounces of milk, five of water and two and one-half tablespoons of sugar, and put this into five bottles, offering one directly after each regular nursing. Nurse at 6, 10, 2, 6 and 10 at night. If you want to wean the baby, use the first formula the doctor gave you. That is for a full feeding and it wouldn't have been possible for the baby to take all of it and nurse, too.

OTHER FOODS

In any complementary feeding the baby is offered a certain definite amount after each regular nursing and is allowed to take what she wants of it. The baby showed her good sense by taking three ounces at some periods and six at others. Those amounts, no doubt, fulfilled her needs at those particular nursing periods.

Your baby needs other foods, too. Cereal, orange juice and vegetables are all in the diet of the well-fed baby of this age. Won't you let me help you further by sending for my leaflets, "Weaning the Breast-fed Baby," "Feeding from Two to Twelve Months" and "Sweet Milk Formulas"? With these three guides, you should be able to feed the baby satisfyingly and properly during the next few months.

To-morrow: "Constant Activity Natural to Children."

VEGETABLE COMBINATIONS

As each vegetable comes into season and becomes plentiful, its possibilities must be studied and carefully worked out if the homemaker receives full value and benefit from it. Vegetables provide an abundant, varied and altogether satisfactory diet at low cost this time of year, if time and thought are spent in their preparation.

The cooking of vegetables in combinations is a worth-while way to save work and fuel. Mild flavored vegetables especially lend themselves to this sort of cookery. Combined with a strong flavored vegetable, the result is a pleasant and out-of-the-ordinary whole. Turnips and potatoes are a time-honored example of such a combination. Inexpensive vegetables combined with expensive ones frequently make it possible to economize without sacrificing palatability.

Summer squash is a splendid vegetable, but it is often criticized as tasteless because it is thoughtlessly prepared and served. It is especially good in combinations on account of its bland flavor. Combined with tomatoes and cheese it offers a well-flavored main dish of high food value.

SUMMER VARIETIES GOOD

There are several varieties of "summer" squash and they are good sources of vitamins. Cymling or "patty pan," crook-neck and marrow all appear in market about the same time and are all delicately flavored. These varieties, which are very fine-grained and tender, are seldom peeled and the seeds are not removed. It is at this stage of their development that they are rich sources of vitamins.

Instead of mashing or frying summer squash, try steaming it and serving it with a white sauce to which cheese has been added. This dish is quite as desirable for children as for adults. Serve it with a crisp vegetable salad, brown bread and butter sandwiches and a fruit dessert.

A squash salad is unusual and surprisingly tasty. Boil or steam squash until tender. Drain, if necessary and cool. Reject seeds and cut the firm part in neat cubes. Combine with shreds of sweet green pepper and serve with sliced tomatoes on a bed of lettuce.

Alternate layers of sauted squash and tomatoes are seasoned with minced onion and celery, topped with grated cheese and baked in a moderate oven for twenty minutes to make an appetizing baked dish.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Orange juice, cereal, cream, eggs poached in milk on toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Squash scalloped with tomatoes pumpernickle, baked apple dumplings, milk, tea.

Dinner: Braised flank steak, mashed potatoes, ten-minute cabbage, grapefruit and raision salad, blueberry pie milk, coffee.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Big Bump

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow with a funny little twinkle perched on top of his pink nose.

"You look very happy this morning, Wiggy," said his wife.

"I am happy," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I am going—" but he stopped, all of a sudden, and did not say where he was going.

"Adventuring I suppose he was going to say," spoke his wife as Uncle Wiggily hopped on down the front path to the gate.

"No!" whispered Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit. "Unkie Wig isn't going adventuring. I know where he's going."

"Where," asked Jingle, who, with the other bunny boys and girls, had just finished breakfast.

"He's going to get in our swing again," said Bunty, sadly, "and we won't feel like asking him to get out and he'll sit in it all day and we shall have no fun."

"Oh, no, Uncle Wiggily will not do that," said Nurse Jane. "Since he made the hammock for me, as he said, though really it is more for himself, since then he swings in that nearly all day. Don't worry, my dears, you shall have the swing to yourselves."

And so it proved, for when Baby Bunty and the others hopped to the woods they found no one, not even Uncle Wiggily, in the swing, so they had lots of fun.

But, just as Nurse Jane had said, Uncle Wiggily went to the hammock he pretended he had made for the muskrat lady and there he stretched out at his ease.

"There's nothing like a hammock," said Uncle Wiggily, closing his eyes.

"Ha! Ha!" softly laughed the muskrat lady as she tiptoed through the woods and saw Mr. Longears asleep. "So this is how he goes adventuring, is it? Well, he may have an adventure even here in the hammock before he knows it."

And that's just what happened.

As Nurse Jane was on her way back to the bungalow after having taken a look at the rabbit gentleman in the hammock, she heard a noise in the bushes.

"Baybe this a Bad Chap going to tip Uncle Wiggily out of the hammock as the Fox tried to do before I hit him on the nose with a stone," whispered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "That will be an adventure all right. I must take a look." Hiding behind a log, Nurse Jane looked. But she saw no Bad Chap. She only saw Bossy, the little calf boy of Mrs. Moo, the cow lady.

"Baa! Baa! Baa!" called Bossy just like a sheep.

"Hello, Bossy!" greeted Nurse Jane. "Where are you going?"

"Oh, I'm just walking around nibbling grass," said Bossy. So he went his way and Nurse Jane went her way and Uncle Wiggily went on sleeping in his hammock.

It was very quiet and warm in the dingly dell where the hammock made of grapevines and honeysuckle strands swayed in the breeze. Uncle Wiggily was having a fine sleep and then he began to dream. He dreamed of the time when the Fox was going to nibble the vines that held up the hammock. And then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily felt a big bump. Oh, it was a most tremendous, large bump and it awakened the rabbit.

"Oh! Oh!" cried Mr. Longears. "The Fox bit the vines and let the hammock fall and that's how I got such a big bump, when I hit the ground. Oh, what a bump!"

Hardly knowing what he was doing, Uncle Wiggily scrambled out of the hammock. He was going to run away when he happened to look and he saw that the hammock had not fallen at all. There it was still swinging by the vine ropes between two trees. But there was something moving under the hammock, something brown and white in color.

"What—what happened?" gasped the rabbit. "How did I get such a big bump if the Fox didn't bite the hammock and make it fall?"

"I guess I bumped you," said a baa-baa voice and out from beneath the hammock walked Bossy, the little calf. "I'm sorry, Uncle Wiggily. You see I had my head down, nibbling grass. I must have nibbled my way under your hammock without knowing it. Then, all of a sudden, I raised my head and I bumped you in the back."

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily. "I guess you did. Well I'm glad, Bossy, that you had no horns on your head. If you had the big bump would have been much worse."

And so it would. So after all nothing much happened. Uncle Wiggily hopped back into the hammock, Bossy went on nibbling grass and everybody was happy.

Governor-General Winnipeg Visitor

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—The corner stone of Winnipeg's magnificent new civic auditorium was laid yesterday by the Earl of Bessborough, being only one of many events crowded into a busy day's programme of the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough.

On arrival here yesterday, morning the party was taken to Government House. A visit to the Deer Lodge Veterans' Hospital, a luncheon by the Manitoba Government at the Agricultural College and tea at Government House followed. Yesterday evening the Governor-General was tendered a monster civic reception in Assiniboine Park.

The Governor-General's party's visit here will end to-morrow.

Mona thought absently that she had read somewhere that men ate far more sensibly than women, as a rule. Well, it was the only sensible thing Bud did. His activities worried Mona. Bud was furtive, mysterious. Never a day passed that Mona quite escaped that nameless worry over her brother. She saw vague disgrace in the offing.

There was orange juice for breakfast, scrambled eggs and golden toast liberally buttered. The delicious scent of coffee had been filling the halls for half an hour. Ma poured a steaming cup and set it beside Mona's plate.

In a clean print house gown, Mrs. Moran was taking her comfortable way between table and stove, chatting busily, neither waiting for nor expecting response. She announced that Kitty's marks at school were better this month. "You see, Min, what a little interest in them teachers does for a child?"

For ma, swathed in her best black, had bustled over to have a talk with Kitty's principal.

Mona smiled. She knew that most likely Miss Preston, with hundreds of children to deal with, did not know Kitty Moran by sight.

Mrs. Callahan had new linoleum for the kitchen. About time Joe did something for his mother except bring his girl in for dinner every Sunday. The Donahue twins were teething. The Caseys were going to have one of them new French telephones.

If Min would leave her silk underwear out on a chair ma would rub it out and press it. There was no sense to Min's tiring herself out at night after work.

"It's your day to visit your father anyhow," ma observed somewhat unnecessarily. Mona was as likely to forget to go to the office as to the hospital on visiting night.

"Tell him I'll be over Sunday," ma went on. She always said that. "I'll roast him a chicken. Kitty can go up to Alice's—"

As ma always cooked something for her husband, and as Kitty always spent Sunday with Alice, this required no particular response. Alice was Mona's elder sister, married these two years and much against ma's wishes. However, after the deed had been done ma was the first to give Alice her support.

Most of the baby's finery had been bought by ma from dimes and quarters saved painstakingly out of the housekeeping money. Mona suspected that ma's movie money found its way into the same fund.

It had been Alice's rather unfortunate marriage which had set Mona against marrying a poor man. Her sister, once so smart looking, skipping off to work every morning, so proud of her ability to help with the family expenses, was now, after two years of married life, a changed being.

Dressed sloppily in house dresses, her hair straggling about her neck, her face guiltless of color and her skin unpowdered, Alice struggled half-heartedly through her day's work in a badly furnished, rather malodorous little flat.

There were always, no matter at what time of day one might call, dishes soaking in the sink, babies' clothes draping the radiator, something stewing on the stove and a broom to be stumbled over in the dark hallway.

The baby was always ailing, always whimpering in apologetic little moans. Jim, the rather disillusioned young husband, usually sought a poolroom after the casual, badly-cooked meal Alice would set out for him. Mona could hardly blame him. It was amazing that this drab, uninterested, unkempt little creature could be the gay, chic Alice who had gone off so confidently to marry Jim.

Whose fault was it that their marriage had turned out so badly? Nobody's, probably. Just the pressure of circumstances.

"Where'd you get the orange juice?" remarked Bud. It was an unprecedented extravagance in the Moran household.

Minnie's beau had brought her home from a party in Brooklyn, ma explained. "And this is what he stops and buys at one of them markets on Washington Place. A crate of oranges, mind you! Drinking, I'll bet. Anyhow better than a lot of orchids!"

She pronounced the word "orchards." Ma had met that exotic flower only in print.

"No," Mona said. "Mr. Hart stopped to talk to one of the market men in Washington Street, mother. You know they get there late at night and wait until morning when the hotel people buy. Well, then Mr. Hart wanted to buy something, too. The crate was right there and he couldn't take it home very well to his club so he gave it to me. He knows we have a large family."

Mona laughed slightly. Cliff Hart was a friend of Lottie's. Rather a good sort, too. Lots of money, funny roguish eyes, twinkling grey-blue.

This rather dashing young man, in a humorous frame of mind, had insisted on driving Mona home via Brooklyn bridge. The party had been in Seventy-first Street.

"Yeah, he did it for the family!" Bud began derisively.

"Children," ma softly interposed. She filled Bud's plate with crisp bacon and carefully browned potatoes.

"Eat a real meal now, Min. I declare, you're as skinny as a rail."

"And," Bud rapped out, "it ain't so stylish!"

Kitty appeared, cosy in her blue bathrobe, her hair tousled and face flushed from sleep, demanding her orange juice. She moved kitchenward with a backward glance over the lifted rim of her glass and at once engaged in conversation with ma concerning a talk at school on the subject of vitamines.

"You are early, Bud," Mona remarked with lowered voice. "Everything all right?"

Bud's eyes shifted and he looked at his sister uneasily. "Yeah."

There was a pause. Mona knew what that meant.

"It's up Fordham way. I'll need car fare, Min."

"Bud, I've got fifty cent to last until to-night. There is car fare, there is lunch and a shine."

"Make one of your swell friends buy your lunch."

The girl's lips tightened. "I don't do that, Bud."

"Well, they buy you dinner—"

"That's different. I'm out of the office then. And I don't dine with anyone I've met through the office."

It was one of Mona's unbreakable rules. She had heard Mr. Garretson thus instruct a younger lawyer. "Never play round with an employe or a client."

There were plenty of others to show Mona attentions. Yes, but they didn't invite her to lunch.

"I'll give you fifteen cents and that's that," Mona announced after an unsatisfactory inspection of her purse. "You must have something with you. You have cigarettes—"

"There's a quarter on the shelf Bud can take," ma called in quickly. "I have ice, and milk, and there's fruit—"

"Don't give him any money, ma," threw in Kitty unexpectedly. "Make him walk to Fordham. Do him good. Or"—pertly—"get that girl of his to give him a lift in her car."

The conversation at the table ceased abruptly.

"Who says I've got a girl with a car?" Bud inquired in surprise.

"I say so." Kitty appeared in the doorway, conscious of the backing of her mother who had followed her in innocent interest and stood close at hand. "I say so and so does Isabel Flynn. We saw you yesterday at the corner."

"Oh." Bud's face lost all interest. He attacked the food on his plate with renewed energy. "That was Rus Webber's wife. Rus was buying a packet of cigarettes. My girl!"

"A fine girl Gertie Webber is, too," ma remarked. "Rus was lucky to get her. I well remember the day—"

Her voice in a rush of reminiscence floated back from an increasing distance. She was in the kitchen getting her purse.

"Wasn't she the girl whose mother wanted a baby with curly hair?" asked Mona amusedly.

"Like yours and Alice's."

"Like ours. And didn't her mother sew bought curls in her bonnet so people seeing her in her carriage—"

"Blond curls and the baby's own hair black as the ace of spades," her mother amended. "That was Gertie. But for all that she grew up to be good looking, curls or no curls."

"She doesn't wear false hair now," Bud remarked defensively. Rus Webber was a good guy. If he married a straight-haired dame then straight hair was the ticket. Bud would hear nothing that sounded like a reflection on Rus or his bride.

"What is your new job—a garage job?" Mona asked as ma disappeared with the coffee pot.

Bud shifted. "Yeah. Something like that. It may be night work. I've got to show up this morning, anyhow."

His eyes, avoiding hers, attached themselves to a spot on the tablecloth. He drank his coffee moodily.

Mona rose, put her chair back in its place, picked up her coat, slid into it, and took up her purse and gloves. She was at the door when Bud called suddenly:

"Guess who I saw yesterday, Min!"

He was regarding her shrewdly as if his news was of great import. A smile hovered over his lips. He rose from his chair.

"I haven't the least idea, Bud. I don't know your friends."

"Your friend, Min." He came a step or two nearer.

She was frankly puzzled. Their social activities were as far apart as the poles. "A friend of mine?"

"I'll say a friend of yours, Min." Bud's voice dropped insinuatingly. He took a step nearer his sister.

"Well?"

Already she knew what Bud was about to tell her. She grasped the knob of the door for support.

"Steve's back, Min. Old Steve—he's back!"

CHAPTER II

Mona made her way down the three flights of dreary stairs. The Morans lived as high above the street as the house afforded so that Kitty would get better air. As Mona dodged empty milk bottles and stepped over garbage cans into the gasoline laden street her heart was beating tumultuously.

Steve Saccarelli back! Back from where—and for what?

She remembered Steve so well though in the three years of his absence the neighborhood, rife with other gossip, had discarded him. The girl smiled a little forlornly. The sight of him would soon revive much of the old gossip. Gossip about Steve and about Mona, too.

COULDN'T PUT HIS SOCKS ON

Half-an-hour to Get Out of Bed

50-Years-old Rheumatism Yields to Kruschen

For 50 years this man endured his sufferings—and then discovered that he could end them in a few months. From the letter he writes it is evident that his rheumatism was severe.

"From my 11th to my 60th year, I was tormented by severe pains. On account of my work I was compelled to get up very early in the morning. But very frequently it took me more than half-an-hour merely to get out of bed. Then I had to be helped to put on my socks, etc., like a child. And now—after the use of only three bottles of Kruschen—I can give warm thanks for quick and complete relief from my rheumatism."—J. F.

If you want to drive the cutting, jabbing pains of rheumatism from your body, put the six salts of Kruschen into your blood. Kruschen will quickly dull the sharp edges of those flint-hard crystals of uric acid which have settled in your muscles and joints. Kruschen will assuredly convert those torturing crystals into a harmless solution, then promptly expel them from your system. Afterwards, the "little daily dose" will keep your inside so regular, so free from poisonous waste matter, that mischievous uric acid will never get the chance to accumulate again.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

What Free Love Means to a Woman

Dorothy Dix

Exposes Fallacies of Subtle Arguments

Girls Who Believe Masculine Sophistries About Beauty of Free Love Should Consider What It Means to the Woman: A Man Who Knows He Is Only Temporarily in Love, Dishonor and a Friendless and Childless Life

I GET an increasingly large number of letters from girls who tell me that they are in love with men who offer them only a free-love union. The girls say that these men tell them that marriage is an outmoded convention that soon will be entirely obsolete; that the only real bond between a man and woman is mutual affection, and that nothing kills love so quickly as the sense of being bound. Also, these men assert that they will never marry any woman until they have lived with her and found out that they are suited to each other in every way.

And the girls, bewildered by these sophistries, want to know what about it.

In former days any man making such a proposition to a girl would have been called a seducer and held up to the scorn of all decent people, and her father would have gone after him with a shotgun, which was a good old American custom that it is a pity we have let fall into desuetude. For when papa was quick on the trigger it wasn't as safe a business for the wolves in sheep's clothing to invade the home-fold as it is now, and the little ewe lambs were a deal safer.

Now, however, a girl has to be her own protector, and so it behooves her to sit down and calmly and dispassionately study this free-love arrangement which a man offers her before she signs on the dotted line, and see what she is going to get out of it.

In the first place, let her ask herself why the man who swears that he loves her with a passion that will last through all eternity, and who asks nothing else of fate but the joy of being with her, balks at the sight of a wedding ring? Why, if he feels that way about her, is he not willing to make a binding life contract with her instead of a sort of gentleman's agreement that he is free to break at any minute? Why, if he admires her and is proud of her, is he not willing to give her his name, and proclaim her to all the world as his wife?

No free-love advocate can answer these questions in any way that would satisfy the intelligence of an idiot female infant. So if the girl has any intelligence whatever she is bound to know that the real reason that the man is not willing to marry her and legally bind himself to her, is because he knows that he has no feeling for her that will endure. He recognizes that her attraction for him is just a passing fancy that will soon be over and he wants to leave himself free to go on to another romance without any mess of divorce, or any obligations to pay alimony.

When a man is really and truly in love with a woman; when he means to cleave to her and devote his life to making her happy, he doesn't hesitate to marry her. He is eager to do so. He wants to bind her to him with hoops of steel.

A man who is buying a piece of property or going into a business deal out of which he expects to make a fortune doesn't hold it on an option. He closes his contract and has it copper-riveted so that no man can take it from him. And that is the way he treats the woman he means to stick to. He calls in the law and the church and society to witness that she is his.

The girl who is contemplating a free-love union may well investigate the quality of the affection that is offered her. What sort of love can a man have for a woman that makes him willing to take her good name from her and make her declasse? Is there anything in it but rank selfishness? Anything that would lead her to believe that he would ever consider her in any way, ever try to protect her from any hardship, ever regard her as anything but something to minister to his pleasure or comfort?

Scoff as he may at marriage, every man knows that it is the badge of respectability for a woman, and that the one who lives with a man without benefit of clergy is outlawed. He knows that no secret lovenest is a home in the sense of the home proudly set up by married people. He knows that a man's mistress has not the status of his wife, that the doors are closed to her that she would like to enter, that her only associates are other women with amirched reputations, and that her life is a hidden-hole-and-corner affair in which other women draw their skirts away from her and other men feel free to insult her.

So a girl may well ask herself what kind of love it is that demands such sacrifices of her and that offers her so little in exchange.

Then there is the question of children. Every normal woman who thinks of marriage thinks of a baby in her arms and a downy head upon her breast, but the girl who enters into a free-love marriage must deny herself the happiness of children, or else commit the crime of bringing a helpless little creature into the world branded with the stigma of illegitimacy. For herself she may endure contumely, but she has no right to thrust the shame of being fatherless and nameless on the child.

And what of the future of a girl who goes into a free-love union with a man? If he didn't love her enough to marry her when she was young and beautiful and desirable, what chance is there of his marrying her when she is older and less good-looking and has a tarnished name that will make his family and friends unwilling to receive her? What market is there for damaged goods?

And if he tires of her what recourse has she? The wife whose husband wearies of her and is unfaithful to her has, at least, her legal claims upon him, and she has her position in society, but the free-love wife has nothing. She has invested her all in a hot-air scheme that has failed so far as she is concerned.

And that is the way free love works out for women. Have nothing to do with it, girls. The man who is not willing to marry you honorably and openly before the world bodes you no good, as the melodramas used to say.

XXV—REWARD

In a way, Allen and Roberta were glad to start homeward but still they were a little sorry to depart from the island which had given them so much interest and enjoyment.

Across the water they could see the lights of Newport

There was good weather on the return voyage, and the "Sister Sue" did not have to battle against a single storm. On an August evening, Allen and Roberta formed part of a group on the deck. Across the water they could see the lights of Newport.

The landing was made next morning, and in the evening of that day everyone who had gone on the voyage gathered for a dinner party at the Old Masthead. A cheerful party it proved to be. Talks were given by Captain Thompson, Dr. Barstow and Mr. Weston.

"One of my dreams is going to come true," said Captain Thompson. "Dr. Barstow has told me that the reward from the museum will be as great as I had hoped; and this reward will make it possible to send Allen and Roberta to college."

After the captain had finished, Dr. Barstow arose and said.

"We have had a great voyage, and I feel that you are all my good friends. In this group are a boy and a girl who did a risky thing by taking a ride in a rowboat. . . ."

At this point he paused, to look at Allen and Roberta. They began to feel that they were going to be scolded, but Dr. Barstow's eyes twinkled as he said, "If they will now promise that they will never take such a risk again, I shall tell them something I am sure they will like to hear."

"We promise," said the children in a breath.

"Very well. The discovery of Atlantosaurus has crowned our expedition with success, and I am sure that I shall be able to arrange some extra rewards from the museum funds—a hundred dollars apiece for Allen and Roberta, and a hundred dollars for each of the sailors who helped us so well. Now Mr. Weston has a few words to say to you."

"I have been on many trips," said Mr. Weston, "but I have never enjoyed one more than the voyage we have just completed. Not the least of my enjoyment has come from answering the questions of my young friends who captured a dinosaur in the midst of the sea! They held on to him, and I can give them credit for that!

"To you all I can say that this big dinosaur, Atlantosaurus, will be set up in the museum of natural history—with the bones in their proper places, as nearly as we shall be able to put them there. It will be a long task, but as soon as it is finished, I want you all to come to see Mr. Atlantosaurus standing on dry land."

Aged Must Make Allowances For Change In Organic Action

Lessening of Sensibility to Pain Adds to Danger From Slowly Developing Diseases

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the things which every person over sixty must realize is that his organs are functioning more slowly than in his youth and that allowances must be made for this change.

The glands tend to function less in old age, so that the skin becomes dry. Even the grastric juice carries a lower percentage of hydrochloric acid, and for this reason there is difficulty with digestion.

Moreover, the mucus in the intestines becomes less, so that there is a tendency to dryness of the intestinal contents and therefore to constipation.

One of the significant changes in old age is the blunting of sensibility to pain. This is very important because the breaking down of the tissues leads to sensations that are uncomfortable. For the same reason disease in old age comes insidiously.

Whereas pneumonia, heart disease or stones in the kidney or gallbladder may cause agonizing pain to a young person, they come on so insidiously in older ones that they may be unrecognized until they have reached the point where help is difficult. Even cancer comes on insidiously in the aged.

The sensations of taste and smell also become weaker so that food is not so appetizing. Everyone knows also that sight and hearing are greatly depreciated in the elderly.

One of the most interesting aspects of old age is the change in the mind and ability to sleep. Because the aged sleep less continuously, they frequently estimate the amount of sleep at much less than it really is.

However, it is quite certain the aged are able to use much less sleep than vigorous, active people, and it is not desirable to get them into the habit of taking sedative drugs.

It is likely, according to Sir Humphrey Rolleston, that excessive sleep is more harmful to them than too little.

The mind becomes much more easily fatigued in old age than in middle age.

Gradually the power of affection wanes in the old, perhaps because they have become habituated to the loss of relatives and friends. Possibly they are more self-centered; time passes slowly and their minds are occupied with their own feelings.

DAN MALONE TO STAY IN CANADA

Immigration Minister Decides Against Deportation of Man in Toronto

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Dan Malone, Toronto Irishman who became a subject of police interest when he was suspected of designs on the life of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, British Dominions Secretary, a fortnight ago, will not be deported. The Minister of Immigration, Hon. W. A. Gordon, reviewed the case and ruled Malone might remain in Canada.

In a statement issued yesterday the minister declared the Malone case had been handled by his department in strict accordance with the regulations governing statutory complaints of aliens becoming public charges. It had developed that Malone had been released from police charges against him and had secured employment. Exercising his prerogative as the sole court of appeal, the minister stated that "it is not intended to effect deportation."

Malone was arrested by Toronto police, who said they suspected him of having uttered threats against the life of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas. He was held on charge of vagrancy. Later the charge was dropped by the police.

Malone denied ever having uttered any threats against Mr. Thomas, and denied he had carried a revolver during a recent visit to Ottawa.

Samuel Factor, Liberal M.P. for Toronto West Centre three days ago said he would "make it a subject of inquiry" if Dan Malone, who was then appealing, should be sent back to Ireland.

Mr. Factor said deportation in the circumstances would be "disgraceful." He said Malone had received only $24 worth of relief from the city of Toronto.

FERGUSON VISITS CANADIAN HOME

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain and former Premier of Ontario, arrived here from England to-day.

He expressed optimism over the Imperial Economic Conference.

Canadian Press

Quebec, Aug. 19.—"The British people are very optimistic about the results of the Ottawa confeence," said Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, on his arrival here yesterday evening on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain. "They were, perhaps, a little upset at the outset when they received press stories indicating things were not going as well as they had hoped, but all that is straightened out now. The people of England do not expect an immediate speeding up over everything. What they look for and what I think the Canadian Government is looking for is a gradual improvement in empire trade as a result."

The conference, Mr. Ferguson thought, could not be expected to do more than deal with things in a broad way, but he felt it had more than demonstrated the spirit of Britain to link up the empire more closely than it ever was.

Central figure in a real life-and-death drama of love and mystery is Libby Holman Reynolds, above, glamorous and petulant torch-singer. At top are four other members of the strange cast. Left to right: Carlisle Higgins, in charge of the prosecution; Alfred Holman, father of Mrs. Reynolds, who is assisting in her defence; Judge A. M. Stack, who will preside at the trial; Sheriff Transou Scott, who secured the evidence on which she was indicted.

New Co-operation In Trade of Empire

London Times and Other Papers of British Capital Express Views on Ottawa Conference

By THOS. T. CHAMPION,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 19—Empire co-operation for twelve months of the year is advocated by The London Times.

In an editorial yesterday on the conference now nearing its close at Ottawa, The Times said:

"What is wanted now is some plan under which co-operation in every field can be made easier. It seems likely, for example, that the tariff boards about to be established in all dominions will play an important part in the regulation of intra-empire trade, and it would certainly seem desirable they should keep in constant easy touch with one another."

At one time, The Times pointed out, it was hoped to establish some form of permanent organization to facilitate the exchange of information and suggestions. A sub-committee of the conference had felt unable to suggest anything like a permanent secretariat, but proposed the appointment of a committee to consider carrying on consultative co-operation.

STEP FORWARD

"It is undoubtedly true no miracles will be accomplished," said The London Daily Mail of the conference. "Still, there is good reason to hope the negotiation of a system of preferential agreements with the dominions, benefiting their trade and ours, will represent an important step toward closer commercial union, even if it does not secure the ideal of empire free trade, which practical men never expected to realize at Ottawa. One thing certain," The Daily Mail added, "is that the ridiculous trade agreements with the Soviet which Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson concluded two years ago will have to be swept away."

BEAVERBROOK'S VIEWS

Lord Beaverbrook's paper, The London Daily Express, wanted to know on what ground United Kingdom delegates hesitated to concede Canada's desire to ban Russian imports, and cited the following statement, reported to have been made by Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain in 1924: "Let us think of our kith and kin in the dominions and think less of Russia."

The Express also attributed anti-Russian utterances in the past to Lord Hailsham and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, two other Conservative members of the United Kingdom delegation at Ottawa.

"These statesmen," concluded The Daily Express, "have paid the price of contamination for association with Mr. MacDonald, Sir Herbert Samuel and Mr. Runciman." The two latter are Liberal members of the National Government.

ROBBED, BUT GETS ROBBER'S DEPOSIT

Cleveland, O., Aug. 19.—When Bernard Chernan ran out of gas, two robbers who were forcing him to drive, oblingingly used their own automobile to get gas for him to drive on to a more lonely spot to be robbed. But Chernan got some of the robber's money later on. Here is the story:

Bernard and his wife had just closed their drug store, and driven about half the way home when two men jumped into his auto, one in the front seat with Chernan and his wife, and the other in the back. The one in the rear kept his gun trained at Chernan's head compelling him to drive on.

A couple of miles further on, and before they were in a quiet district, the auto ran out of gas. The two hold-up men held a whispered conference, and left in their car. In a few minutes they were back with a gallon of gas, which they poured in the tank of Chernan's car. "Start going," they ordered.

Another couple of miles, and the robbers took $1.15 from Chernan, $15 from his wife and fled in their car. On the way home, Chernan stopped at a gasoline station and asked the attendant if he could use the can.

"Why, that's my own can," said the man. "I gave it to two men who were in here a little while ago. They put up a dollar deposit." Chernan took the deposit.

LIQUOR SALES OFF $3,000,000

Board's Annual Profits Fall at Rate of $700,000; Net $1,637,783 in Last Six Months

Government Makes Half-yearly Distribution of Liquor and Motor Money to Cities

Liquor sales in British Columbia have dropped by $3,000,000 this year, with a corresponding drop at the rate of $700,000 in net profits to the Liquor Control Board.

These figures are revealed by the Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, who has just made public the apportionment of liquor profits and motor tax receipts to the municipalities of the province for the period covered by the six months ending March 31 last.

For the six months covered by this distribution profits totaled $1,637,783, with the 23 per cent share for the municipalities amounting to $376,690. These figures compared with profits for the corresponding six months last year of $2,003,104, and a distribution to the municipalities of $460,000.

The distribution to the municipalities last December for the six months ending last September was $380,750.

Sales for the six months ending March 31 last ran to $6,551,132, which is at the rate of around $13,000,000 a year. Of this, the board counts on taking a profit of 25 per cent for itself, and out of which the distribution to the municipalities is made.

The distribution of motor fees to the municipalities is made once a year and is fixed by statute at $570,000. It is apportioned on the basis of population.

POPULAR STAR AT THE EMPIRE

Gertrude Lawrence in Leading Role in "Aren't We All" Opening Here To-day

Gertrude Lawrence in "Aren't We All?" is now at the Empire Theatre.

Miss Lawrence is one of the favorites of the British and American stages. She made her first appearance on Broadway in "Charlot's Revue."

She is supported by a cast of stage and movie celebrities, including Hugh Wakefield, Owen Nares, Emily Fitzroy and Harold Huth.

arry Lachman, the director, was associated with Rex Ingram in producing "The Garden of Allah" and "Mare Nostrum."

The locale of the picture is France and England.

Frederick Lonsdale, author of the film, is one of the leading living playwrights. He wrote this comedy originally for the stage, and it was produced with much success in Britain and America.

DOMINION THEATRE

John Barrymore is the ranking favorite of the "royal family" of Broadway and Hollywood. Theatrical legend has grown up about the Barrymores and the Drews—his family on his mother's side. Barrymore was born in Philadelphia. He wanted to be an artist, so went to art school in Paris. Tried drawing cartoons for newspapers but Arthur Brisbane fired him and advised him to try the stage with other members of his family.

"State's Attorney" reveals a new John Barrymore—gay, suave, the lover as in the past, but also a man of steel and fire, challenging first the law, and later crime in the same skillful and unrelenting fashion. It is a role said to be admirably suited to the volatile acting of Barrymore. "State's Attorney" is at the Dominion Theatre. It has in its star cast Helen Twelvetrees, Jill Esmond, William (Stage) Boyd, Mary Duncan and others.

CAPITAL THEATRE

A carload of punching bags, boxing gloves, medicine balls and other training equipment were sent down to Palm Springs for Jimmy Cagney, the Warner Bros. First National torpedo, who was getting ready to play a fight here in "Winner Take All," which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Cagney, who is called the most realistic of the younger stars to-day, went into this role with all the earnestness and energy of a fighter preparing for a real ring battle. He was at the Springs for two weeks, working under the eye of Harvey Perry, former crack boxer and now a professional trainer.

Perry had the actor, who is a fair boxer, on a strict training diet and exercise routine. He had Cagney out early in the morning for a five-mile jog along the desert roads. This was followed by light gymnasium work, boxing, rope-skipping and a session on the rowing machine.

ROMANO THEATRE

Chinese nomenclature is exactly the reverse of the English system, it was learned by Edward G. Robinson, star of "The Hatchet Man," First National and Vitaphone picture which is showing at the Romano Theatre to-day. Whereas in English-speaking and Occidental countries generally the surname comes last, in China the family name comes first. Robinson, therefore, as Wong Low Get is known as Mr. Wong and not Mr. Get. In Chinese his name would be reversed to read 'Robinson G. Edward.' This system of nomenclature, as used in "The Hatchet Man," has existed since the earliest days of Chinese culture.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Food was the attraction which brought atmosphere actors literally flocking to the Paramount location set in San Pedro, Cal., where scenes were being made for "The Lawyer's Secret." The atmosphere players, in this case, were seagulls, who shield at having their pictures made until a large loaf of bread tempted them into camera range.

"The Lawyer's Secret," with Clive Brook, Charles Rogers, Richard Arlen, Fay Wray and Jean Arthur in the cast, is showing at the Playhouse Theatre the balance of the week.

PARELLI WINS OVER ARTHUR

Italian Wrestler Gains Third and Winning Fall in Fifth Round

Pinning Ernie Arthur for the third and deciding fall in the fifth round, Joe Parelli, Italian wrestler, took the main event on yesterday evening's card at the Tillicum gym. In the semi-windup over five rounds, Tetsura Higami and Waino Ketonen grappled to a one fall draw. In the local preliminary, "Fat" Griffin took one fall from Johnny Masters.

With each wrestler having a fall to his credit, Arthur appeared to have Parelli in a bad way in the fifth, but the Italian tapped Arthur on the back, and the latter, thinking it was the referee, rose to his feet. Watching his chance, Parelli felled the local grappler with a blow to the head and then dropped on him for the winning fall. Parelli had taken a fall in the third, while Arthur evened matters in the fourth.

Higami and Ketonen engaged in rather a slow bout. Using a Boston crab, Ketonen gained a fall in the fourth round, while Higami resorted to ju jitsu to even matters in the fifth and final round.

TOBACCO EXPERT HERE FROM CYPRUS

George Mills, tobacco expert of Kyrenia, Cyprus, was in the city yesterday conferring with Department of Agriculture officials on the industry and its possibilities in Canada. Mr. Mills recommends the adoption of the Burley variety alone for the Okanagan Valley. This variety, he believes, will grow in large quantities in the valley, owing to the nature of the soil and the irrigation system.

Mr. Mills believes the Sumas reclaimed lands are ideal for the culture of Virginia tobacco. He is of the opinion that a large export trade may be worked up with Great Britain for both varieties.

FUNERAL MONDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Gertrude Stratford, who passed away at an early hour yesterday morning, will take place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sands Mortuary Chapel and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

INTERIOR FARMERS TAKE TO FALL RYE

Farmers of Central British Columbia are taking keen interest in growing of fall rye. For years the Rosen seed produced large yields and farmers found a ready demand. Several years ago Professor Paul C. Boving of the University of B.C., brought from Sweden a variety known as the "Storm," which has attained great popularity owing to its short, sturdy straw, hardiness and good yield.

There is an increasing demand for fall rye for cover crops, fall sown silage mixture a-1 also from distilleries of the province, it was stated at the Department of Agriculture to-day.

DISTRIBUTION NEAR ESTIMATE

Victoria's share of liquor profits and motor license receipts will just about meet the requirements of the civic budget which they were expected to do, it was announced at the City Hall this morning following the release of distribution figures by the Provincial Government.

From motor licenses the city will receive $42,854, which is $354 more than the estimated $42,500 which the city expected.

For the full year the city anticipates $45,000 from liquor profits and its first cheque will be $24,175. The July distribution is usually larger than the December amount, accounted for by the fact that this is more than half the estimate.

CRASH OF AUTOS ENDS SIX LIVES

Cans of Gasoline on Running Board of Car in Collision Cause Disaster

Associated Press

Midland, Mich., Aug. 19.—A father and mother and their four children were burned fatally early to-day in their automobile, which caught fire after colliding with another car.

Those who lost their lives were: George Messer, forty-three; Mrs. George Messer, forty-one; Edward Messer, twelve; Forest Messer, ten; Stella Messer, six; Ruth Messer, four.

Harry Crane of Bear Lake, Mich., the seventh occupant of the Messer car, was taken to a hospital here, seriously burned. He is not expected to live.

The Messer car collided with one driven by George Patrick, who was carrying two five-gallon cans of gasoline on his running board. In the collision the cans burst.

The gasoline was sprayed over the Messer car, which caught fire. The seven occupants were trapped, and Edward, Stella and Ruth were dead by the time persons attracted to the scene could check the flames and reach them. Forest died two and one-half hours later in the Mercy Hospital at Bay City. Mr. and Mrs. Messer died a few minutes later.

ALDERMAN IS STORM CENTRE

Air Board Demands Retraction of Statement By Alderman W. D. Todd

Resignation Is Threatened Unless Withdrawal of Charges Made

Development of a wide-open split between the city's advisory air board and Alderman W. D. Todd, chairman of the business and trade development committee which handles aviation matters, was imminent to-day as a result of statements made by Alderman Todd at the City Council meeting Monday evening.

Resignation en bloc of the air board is threatened unless Alderman Todd retracts the statements he made. Alderman Todd was out of the city to-day and could not be reached for a further statement on the matter.

The dispute arose out of remarks which the alderman made Monday in connection with the appointment of a manager for the airport at Gordon Head.

MANAGER NAMED

Alderman Todd's committee had been delegated to choose a manager for the airport, but had made no recommendation and in view of the fact that the city's insurance policy on the site was not valid unless there was a manager to supervise the place, Mayor Leeming stepped in and named a temporary manager, who was confirmed in office by the council Monday evening.

Alderman Todd said the reason for the delay was the air board, which had blocked his committee. Alderman W. T. Straith immediately replied by pointing out that on June 13 the air board had submitted a recommendation to the effect that a disinterested party should be given the appointment. There had been two applications for the position from fliers who sought operating concessions at the airport.

TO TENDER RESIGNATION

As an outcome of Alderman Todd's statements, the air board has decided to send a letter to the City Council offering its resignation unless Alderman Todd retracts his remarks. It also asks the council to disassociate itself with the remarks of the alderman.

"There is no foundation for the charge that we were a stumbling block. We were asked for advice on the matter and gave that advice two months ago. We have taken no further action in the matter since then," said the board representative this morning.

The air board, which acts only in an advisory capacity, without remuneration, consists of the following: R. H. B. Ker, president of the Chamber of Commerce; A. W. Carter, W. J. Moffat, Major D. MacLaren, D.S.O., M.C., D.F.C., and Alderman Straith.

BURIED YESTERAY

The funeral of Alfred J. Bartlett, who passed away in this city on Sunday, took place yesterday afternoon. Rev. F. Comley conducted the service, during which the hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" were sung. Interment was made at Ross Bay Cemetery with the following as pallbearers: F. L. Fenshan and H. Brown, as honorary pallbearers; A. Lissenden, E. Rowland, H. Holmes, J. W. DeBald, R. Dinsdale and C. M. Brown as active pallbearers.

FARM STRIKE INVESTIGATED

Iowa Officials Inquire to Discover If Federal Law Violated

Associated Press

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 19.—Striking farmers augmented their forces to-day to tighten their grip on Cloux City—key point in their "war" for higher prices.

Dakota County, Nebraska, farmers, meeting in Dakota City, five miles south of here, voted their support and were patrolling roads leading into Sioux City from the south to-day.

More South Dakota farmers were also picketing the highways, but struck a possible snag when Olaf Eidem, United States district attorney at Sioux Falls, began an investigation into the stopping of trucks by farmers. Sheriff John Johnson of Minnehaha County expressed the belief interstate commerce was being interfered with, in violation of federal law.

MANY TRUCKS TURNED BACK

Meanwhile the picketing farmers in Plymouth and Woodbury counties in Iowa agreed in conferences with authorities to move back to the county lines and continue their picketing after having reduced the number of trucks entering the city from several hundred to two in twenty-four hours.

This restriction on highway transportation has reduced the livestock receipts at the Sioux City stockyards more than half. Many farmers were shipping by rail, however, and at Des Moines W. O. Fraser of the United States Department of Agriculture said a marked increase in marketing at cities adjacent to Sioux City was apparent.

After a conference which lasted far into the night, milk producers and distributors broke up again without coming to terms. The disagreement, which precipitated the present blockade, arose over demands of farmers for a 100 per cent increase in milk prices.

SCRIP USED

Malvern, Iowa, Aug. 19.—Scrip, a substitute money for use in Mills County during the farmers' holiday, has made its appearance. The first supply was put into circulation by the Malvern Cold Storage Company.

H. H. Lisle of Hastings, chairman of the Mills County Farmers' Holiday Association, said: "It is more money, not credit, that the farmers of this county need. The purpose of our scrip is to supply farmers with substitute money as a matter of convenience until the holiday is over."

The scrip, in the form of promissory notes, are serving as warehouse receipts. The issue states that the company will pay to the bearer the sum designated within sixty days of the date issued.

A stipulation is printed beneath that no single piece of scrip shall be issued in excess of $10 and the scrip will be accepted for its face value for any article offered for sale by the company.

"This may be endorsed as a cheque," Lisle said. "It is our intention that none of the scrip shall get out of the county."

CYCLIST HURT IN COLLISION

E. Wheater Taken to Hospital After Accident on Shelbourne Street

Edwin Wheater, Grant Street, Saanich, was reported slightly improved today in the Jubilee Hospital, where he was taken following a traffic accident on Shelbourne Street yesterday evening. He sustained injuries to his back and abdomen, and his right leg was badly hurt.

Mr. Wheater was riding a bicycle north on Shelbourne Street, about 300 feet north of Hillside Avenue, when his machine was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. W. C. Buckingham, 1238 Esquimalt Road, according to the police report. The car was going in the same direction, and was believed to have swerved in passing another vehicle.

Constables W. Harper and H. Mercer took the injured man to the hospital in the police ambulance and Dr. T. W. Gray attended him.

ROGERS FLIES HERE FROM NEW YORK

Says McLarnin Will Fight Benny Leonard; Party of Farmers Visit City

After a trip across the continent from New York by airplane, Ralph Rogers arrived in Victoria to-day, and has taken up his residence at the Empress Hotel. He went to New York to pay a visit to his friend Jimmy McLarnin, the welterweight champion contender and former Vancouver boy. Mr. Rogers said McLarnin will go up against the great Benny Leonard in the near future, the match already having been arranged.

A party of 150 Ohio State farmers, with their wives, arrived in Victoria yesterday from Seattle. A special tour luncheon was staged for them at the Empress Hotel. Following the luncheon they looked over Victoria and left by the evening boat for Seattle. They formed one of the largest tour parties that has been here for some weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stephen and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lamprey of Vancouver came over this morning and are spending a mid-summer holiday at the Empress Hotel.

TO INSTRUCT IN LIFE-SAVING

Ralph Alcock Will Start New Class at Gorge Monday Morning

Instruction in lifesaving will be given by Ralph Alcock, lifeguard at the city's free bathing house at the Gorge, to classes commencing next Monday morning, it was announced this morning.

Classes will be conducted every Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 10 o'clock, until the end of the season, and any persons desirous of learning methods of saving persons from drowning may apply to Mr. Alcock.

Earlier this year Mr. Alcock taught nearly 200 children to swim at the Gorge, and also conducted a lifesaving class. He is a member of the lifesaving society here and has shown a keen interest in the advancement of the movement.

FISH CONTEST PLANNED SOON

Selected anglers who have demonstrated their prowess in the waters of Saanich Inlet, will compete in an invitational fishing contest under the auspices of Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association on August 28.

Arrangements for the event are now being completed and a good list of prizes has been drawn up for the competition.

As the association becomes more popular, more and more buttons are being distributed to men and women who land tyees while trolling in the district.

The most recent distinction in the line goes to the family of C. D. Oldershaw, Bakersfield, California. A short time ago, Mr. Oldershaw qualified for the association's bronze button when he landed a salmon weighing over twenty pounds. Soon after, his son, W. M. Oldershaw, gained the coveted award. The day before yesterday Mrs. C. D. Oldershaw joined the ranks of the fishermen's elite by capturing another giant fish to win her button.

LAID TO REST TO-DAY

Funeral services were held this morning for Mrs. Margaret Townsend, who passed away on Wednesday. Rev. Father J. A. Gaudette celebrated Mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 9 o'clock, and interment was made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

READY FOR NEXT BISLEY SHOOT

Major F. Richardson, Back From Empire Shooting Classic, Will Return Next Year

Praises Shooting of Miss Gwen Spencer, Clever Local Competitor, on Ranges

Major Fred Richardson, crack Victoria marksman, is back in the city to-day after competing at Bisley.

His markmanship on the ranges this year was affected by an unfortunate accident which confined him to hospital for some time.

Major Richardson returns home, however, confident of his ability to equal, if not surpass, his former efforts on the shooting range.

"Oh, yes, I shall be back there next year," he said when asked as to his intentions concerning the 1933 Bisley meet.

The major found plenty of optimism in the United Kingdom.

The spirit of the people over there, he said, indicated that the worst of the economic depression was over.

Traveling across the Dominion the major was impressed by the waving grain fields on the prairies and the harvesting operations under way.

PRAISES PROTEGEE

Major Richardson was enthusiastic about the performance of Miss Gwen Spencer, of Victoria, sole Canadian woman at Bisley.

"Miss Spencer proved that in a few years she will be one to be reckoned with. She has the temperament, physique and mental gift. I was much impressed with her work and she gave Victoria a lot of advertising. In the shoot for the Amazon Prize, the crown coveted by the fair sex, the best the South African and United States entries could do was thirty-nine. Gwen calmly took her position, fired a trial shot and went on to make 40, which gave her the coveted honor. The Canadian team was overjoyed at the great win and gave her a great reception, for she was a big favorite.

"At Ottawa, Miss Spencer had the honor of being within one point of leading the field on the first day. On following days, however, the weather conditions proved too much for her, though she was well up and shot into quite a number of prizes."

Major Richardson looks forward to seeing many women take up the rifle in the future.

"I must mention that Capt. Dave Fyvie did us proud at Ottawa and was in fact the only one among us who reached the top. The shooting was very high, the youngsters dominating mostly."

MOTOR ACT IN EFFECT SEPT. 1

New Legislation to Govern Financial Responsibility of Drivers

A new act, determining in a modified manner the financial responsibility of drivers of automobiles in British Columbia, will go into effect on September 1. This act, an analysis prepared by the automobile branch of the B.C. Insurance Underwriters' Association points out, is not a compulsory insurance law, but it provides that, under certain circumstances, automobolile drivers are required to give proof of financial responsibility, either by filing an insurance policy, filing a bond, or making a deposit of cash or securities. When proof of responsibility is required it must be continued for three years. The act is not retroactive and does not apply to accidents or convictions prior to September 1. All motor vehicles, automobiles, trucks, trailers, motorcycles or tractors, are included in its provisions.

Not only driver's license but owner's license may be suspended under the new act, in the event of a person failing to satisfy a final judgment for damages on account of the death or injury of another person or damage to property in excess of $100. Suspension may also be ordered in the event of conviction on any one of a number of charges, including driving to the common danger, or exceeding the speed limit when the offence results in bodily injury or property damage of $25 or more; failure to remain at or return to the scene of an accident; driving without a license; any criminal offence involving operation of a motor vehicle, which includes driving a motor vehicle when intoxicated.

California's "Native Sons" Failed at Olympic Games

Parading of Horses Will Be Eliminated in English Racing

Hornsby's Chances of Getting New Job Are Pretty Slim

Only Four Clubs in Two Major Leagues Where He May Land

A GLANCE at the Olympic returns reveals that many "native sons" of the Golden State who were touted as winners did not make the grade. Notable among these were Frank Wykoff and Ben Eastman, runners; Jimmy DeMers, javelin; Herman Brix, weights, and Bob Jones, discus.

Even before the games got under way a point or two had to be stretched in order to admit Ken Churchill and Dick Barber to Olympic competition, extra trials being arranged for their accommodation.

The summaries show that a Michigan negro won two sprints, a Pennsylvanian beat Eastman in the 400 metres, three Finns took the javelin honors and New Yorkers won the shot-put and discus throw.

There seems to be but one conclusion. It must have been the climate.

Horse racing, the sport of kings, is to be pepped up in England in the near future.

It is not that the enthusiasm for horse racing in that country is on the wane, but it is felt that more thrilling races should be the order of the day.

As a result, the Jockey Club has decided to veto the parade of horses each race. The chances of many fine horses, it is felt in racing circles, have been ruined through their taking part in these preliminaries.

The abolition of the parades will displease the public, to whom they are a valuable means of identification. Under the new arrangement horses will be dispatched direct to the starting point, and although only a fleeting glimpse of them will be caught the energies of the horses will be considerably saved.

It is not proposed, however, to abolish the parades in some of the classic races, the Ascot Gold Cup or the Derby, despite the fact that these races are by far the greatest ordeals that horses have to face.

Rogers Hornsby expresses himself as hopeful of acquiring a playing-manager job in the major leagues before another season begins. Where will he go?

One guess is as good as another. Perhaps process of elimination would help toward a conclusion. There are four National League cities where he cannot light. They are St. Louis, New York, Boston and Chicago. Pittsburgh is not likely to dismiss George Gibson after he hauled the team to the top. The same goes for Philadelphia, a club Burt Shotton brought out of the cellar into the light of day.

Brooklyn already has signed Max Carey as manager for another year. That leaves only Cincinnati, where Dan Howley has been having one bad break after another for the last three years. But Cincinnati fans have ridden Hornsby for years, and it is doubtful if Sidney Weil would take a chance of antagonizing his dwindling clientele.

There has been a persistent rumor, however, that Dan Howley would not be the 1933 manager of the Reds.

In what American League cities might Hornsby dwell? Not New York, where Joe McCarthy is strongly in favor. Not Detroit, where Bucky Harris has begun to get good results with the Tigers after two years of bad breaks.

Nobody needs to be told that Hornsby is not being considered in Philadelphia. If Connie Mack steps out, Eddie Collins will step right in. And Cleveland is sold on Roger Peckinpaugh, who has been keeping the Indians in the fight all season.

Washington? Hardly, even though Clark Griffith is said to be not completely sold on Walter Johnson. Griffith is too smart not to perceive what effect the Hornsby personality would have on a team like the Senators. And the fans like Johnson, but wouldn't stand for Hornsby.

The Chicago management has signified that Lew Fonseca is to be retained for another year. Louis Comiskey, son of the Old Roman, is trying to rebuild the once mighty team into its former greatness, and has faith in Fonseca's ability to put a good club together.

St. Louis and Boston are the only clubs in the league likely to take Hornsby. Bill Killefer has been doing very well with the Browns, considering the club he had to work with when he took over the job a couple of years ago. He deserves another shot at the managership and will be retained for at least another year.

Boston is uncertain. Anything may happen to the team next year, though under Marty McManus, the Red Sox have shown vast improvement over their early season form. The club is reported to be just about broke, and may be sold. It is conceivable that Hornsby might be taken to the Hub team under new ownership.

One thing is certain, however, Hornsby cannot be a playing manager. His days on the diamond are ended.

Decision To-night On Local Entry In Provincial Series

League Executive Will Rule Whether Victoria Champions to Seek B.C. Championship; Possibly Victoria Will Not Be Contender; Local Finals Will Open Next Friday at Latest; Victory for Elks To-night Over Green Mill Would Start Play-offs Monday

Play-offs in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League will get under way next week, it was announced to-day by officials of the league. The opening series will be between the holders of second and third place with the winner opposing the first-place holders in the finals. At the present time the three teams to participate in the play-offs have been determined but their final order of finish is still in doubt.

At the present time the Sons of Canada head the league by a two-game margin over the Green Mill. The latter, however, have two games to play, so have a chance to gain a tie with the Sons for first place. To-night at the Royal Athletic Park, starting at 6.15 o'clock, the Green Mill will hook up with the third-place Elks. Should the former win they will oppose the Tillicums on Monday night. A victory in this game will put them in a tie with the Sons, making a sudden-death game necessary to decide first place. If this game is necessary, it will be staged next Wednesday evening.

Should the Elks win to-night, the Sons will have cinched first place and a bye in the play-off. In that case, the Green Mill and Elks will open their play-off, which is expected to be a two-out-of-three series, Monday evening, with the second game Wednesday and the third, if necessary, on Friday. The winner of this series would then meet the Sons in what is expected to be a best three-out-of-five battle.

Should Green Mill defeat the Elks to-night and then lose to the Tillicums on Monday evening, the Green Mill-Elks series would then start next Wednesday.

DECIDE IN B.C. SERIES

Following to-night's game, a meeting of the league executive will be held to decide whether or not the local champions will enter the play-offs for the British Columbia championship. Should the local league decide against entering the provincial series, the local play-offs may be lengthened, the second and third series being three out of five and the finals four out of seven.

Should the league decide to throw in their lot with the provincial organization, they will appoint a delegate to-night to attend a meeting of the play-off committee of the British Columbia Amateur Baseball Association in Vancouver to-morrow evening.

In the British Columbia series the Victoria team would be drawn against one of the mainland winners in a best two-out-of-three series, with the first game and possibly the second scheduled here.

Totem Pole Golf Not Called Off

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—"From some mysterious source rumor has been spread in Victoria that the seventh annual Totem Pole Golf Tournament at Jasper from September 3 to 10 has this year been cancelled. On behalf of the Canadian National Railways I emphatically deny this rumor and can officially state that the tournament will be held as scheduled. We already have many bookings and our friends from Vancouver Island who go to Jasper every year for this event may rest assured that the tournament will be held as advertised," stated George A. McNicholl, general passenger agent, Canadian National Railways, here today when asked about the rumor from Victoria that the event would not be held this year. "Golfers need have no fear, the Totem Pole Tournament is too well established to be called off," he added.

PERRY LOSES TO UNKNOWN

Davey Jones, New York, Eliminates British Tennis Ace at Newport

Newport, R.I., Aug. 19.—The last of the invading threats in the Newport Casino singles tennis tourney were wiped out yesterday.

Most of the credit for turning back the visitors from abroad must be given to the low ranker, battling Davey Jones of New York. This converted Columbia basketball player eliminated Frederick J. Perry, England, who, a year ago, was good enough to get into the Casino finals.

Jones pulled himself together at the crucial points and forced Perry out of the competition with as pretty a display of hard driving as the tennis public has witnessed in many years. The scores were 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Wilmer Allison, the Texan Davis Cup veteran, eliminated the meticulous Jiro Satoh, Japan's outstanding player, in a five-setter, 1-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, to go into the semi-finals against Gregory Mangin of Newark, N.J. The latter beat Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-0, 4-6, 12-14, 9-7, a total of sixty-eight games that lasted almost four hours.

VINES WHIPS VAN RYN

Ellsworth Vines, United States and Wimbledon champion and last year's Casino winner, won his quarter-finals play against Johnny Van Ryn, Philadelphia, 2-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 margin.

The invading element in the doubles play was also eliminated. George Lott and Frank Shields accounted for the British Davis Cup pair, Perry and Henry W. "Bunny" Austin, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, 1-6, 8-6, and Sidney Wood, New York, and Lester Stoeffen, Los Angeles, put out the Japs, Satoh and Takeo Kuwabara, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Ralph de Palma Claims Records

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—Establishment of three world records on Muroc dry lake was claimed to-day by Ralph de Palma, veteran racedriver, on the basis of time checks made by officials of a telegraph company.

The driver said he had broken the record for 500 miles with an average speed of 112.22 miles an hour for 4 hours 27 minutes and 20.2 seconds Tuesday, as well as the records for 500 and 1,000 kilometres. He negotiated 500 kilometres, the telegraph company said, at an average speed of 111.56 miles per hour and 1,000 at a speed of 113.51.

KRUSE DRAWS WITH GEORGE

Portland Wrestler Shows Up Well in Bout With Former Heavyweight Champion

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—Turning in one of the best wrestling performances he has yet given in Vancouver, Bob Kruse, Portland, deservedly held Don George, Buffalo, former heavyweight champion, to a one-fall draw in the eight-round headline bout here yesterday evening. In the semi-final bouts Vancouver grapplers were successful, Jack Forsgren taking the only fall from Tal Rumber, Spokane, and Jack McLaughlin winning in similar manner from Pat Callahan, Butte.

George spent most of his time on the mat, firmly held in wrist and armlocks or toeholds. Only twice did he attempt his favorite flying head-scissors—once he connected and secured a fall, and the other time he missed his objective by yards. Kruse did more straight wrestling than he generally does, and seldom sought the ropes.

KRUSE HAS EDGE

In the first three rounds Kruse had much the better of matters, bringing into play numerous flying wristlocks, body scissors and headlocks. George obtained his first good hold in the fourth canto, a cradle split, which Kruse got away from by countering with an armlock.

Shortly after the fifth round started Kruse obtained another armlock, when George suddenly jumped in the air, wrapped his legs around the Portlander's head, and knocked him backwards to pin him for the first fall. Kruse evened the count in the seventh after a couple of elbow jabs, followed by three flying wristlocks, which landed George heavily against the ropes, and then fell across him for the tying fall.

George started the last round with a crucifix, and followed with another cradle split, but Kruse had him in a bad headlock when the bell sounded. Weights were announced as George 218 and Kruse 202.

Chicago Cubs Play Forty-three Frames To Win Three Games

After Winning Nineteen-inning Battle From Boston Braves Wednesday Cubs Were Forced to Travel Fifteen Innings Yesterday to Score 4-to-3 Triumph; Are Now Two and a Half Games Ahead of Pittsburgh in National League Race; Boston Wins Lone Game in American

The Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves seem to have clinched the marathon championship beyond a shadow of a doubt. They have just completed a three-game series and the Cubs have had to travel forty-three innings—the equivalent of almost five ordinary contests—to win three one-run decisions.

Charley Grimm's outfit scored four runs in the ninth to win the first game, 4 to 3, on Tuesday and on Wednesday the clubs battled through nineteen innings before the Cubs won, 3 to 2.

Taking up right where they had left off they fought through another extra-inning thriller yesterday until Riggs Stephenson broke up the ball game in the fifteenth with a single that gave the Cubs a 4 to 3 triumph and stretched their league lead to two and one-half games over the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Phillies turned back the St. Louis Cardinals in both ends of a double-header, 1 to 4 and 9 to 4.

The New York Giants made it four in a row from Cincinnati, 7 to 3.

The only American League game of the day was a spectacular struggle between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns, which the former won, 7 to 6, in fifteen innings.

Toronto Maple Leafs, occupants of last place in the International League standing, are mathematically out of the pennant race. Weak hitting has been their trouble all season. The Leafs dropped a double-header yesterday to Newark, the Bears taking the first, 2 to 0, and the second, 2 to 1.

The Albany Senators crushed Rochester's bid for a First Division berth yesterday, when they downed the Red Wings 7 to 2, and deprived them of a chance to oust Montreal from fourth place.

The Baltimore Orioles took both ends of a twilight double-header from Buffalo Bisons to gain a virtual tie for second place in the standing. The Orioles took the first, 7 to 5, and the second, 3 to 0. The result left Buffalo holding second place by a single point, and gave Newark a lead of fourteen games over the field.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The battle of extra innings raged at Wrigley Field yesterday, with the Cubs once more defeating Boston Braves, 4 to 3, in fifteen innings of brilliant and erratic baseball.

As the Boston defence cracked for the sixth time in the long battle to permit English, who had singled, and Cuyler, who had sacrificed, to reach third and second on a wild throw with nobody out, Riggs Stephenson stepped to the plate and hit "Socks" Seibold's first pitch to left field for the winning wallop of the game. The wild toss was made by Catcher Spohrer.

The overtime game extended the three-game series between the two clubs to forty-three innings, with the Cubs now two and a half games in front of the idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League race.

Guy Bush, the third Cub pitcher to take the mound yesterday, gained the distinction of winning two games in as many days by pitching to just seven batters. He relieved Tinning and pitched one inning to win Wednesday.

St. Louis, Aug. 19.—The Phillies defeated S. Louis Cardinals in both games of a double-header here yesterday, winning the first game 10 to 4 and the second, 9 to 4.

Philadelphia batters brought in five runs off Stout and Carleton in the fifth inning to clinch the second game. J. Elliott held the Cards to eight hits, while Stout and Carleton yielded twelve.

Gorge Vale Golf Club Opens First Nine Holes To-morrow

Members To Play Over Full Course In Team Fixture

Col. A. A. Sharland, President, and James Burden, Captain, Will Skipper Sides in Match To-morrow to Formally Open Completed Course; First Nine Are in Good Condition; Course Was First Opened November 1, 1930; Members Have Carried Out Many Improvements

Opening of the first nine holes at the Gorge Vale Golf Club will take place to-morrow afternoon, it was announced to-day by Secretary James Smart. The opening of the first half of the course will take the form of a team match between two sides selected from the club members and skippered by Col. A. A. Sharland, president of the club, and James Burden, club captain. The first pair will tee off at 1 o'clock.

According to Secretary Smart and Freddy Clunk, club professional, the nine holes are in good condition. Members of the club have spent considerable time and energy putting the fairways and greens into shape, and now they will reap the benefit of their labors. The first nine are in better shape for the opening than the second nine were when they were thrown open on November 1, 1930.

A certain amount of work has still to be carried out to eliminate a number of the rough spots, but the grounds are in good playable condition. The first nine after to-morrow afternoon will be open at all times to members of the club. The official opening of the first nine will take place at a latter date.

Now that it has become an eighteen-hole course, the Gorge Vale Club boasts one of the sportiest lay-outs on the Pacific Coast. Constructed midst beautiful scenic surroundings the course offers a true test of golf, and no doubt will prove very popular with both local and visiting club swingers.

Since the opening of the course, two years ago, the members, working under the direction of the improvement committee, have done much to improve the general appearance of the grounds. The grounds around the clubhouse have been well cleared and other beautifying work carried out. The members have displayed a true community spirit.

Clunk, rising young pro at the club, who recently established a new course record of 69, playing over the second nine holes, played over the first nine this afternoon, and to-morrow will attempt to hang up a good score for the complete eighteen.

On Sunday a team match between members of the Gorge Vale Club and teams from the Macaulay Point Club will be staged. The "A" teams will play at Gorge Vale and the "B" sides at Macaulay.

RAIN HALTS TENNIS PLAY

Mrs. L. Harper Drops First Set to Caroline Babcock in U.S. Championship

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 19.—Just when the grandstand tenants apparently were on the verge of seeing something exciting after three days of pretty dull doing in the Women's National tennis championships, it had to rain yesterday and postpone any climax there may be until to-day.

When the big drops began to fall the crowd was straining forward to watch a black-haired little fighter from Los Angeles, Caroline Babcock, play rings around Mrs. Lawrence Harper, the tournament's second seeded star.

Playing only her third season of big-time tennis, the twenty-year-old Coast girl brought forth a dazzling variety of strokes to crush her more noted opponent, 6-3, in the initial set and apparently was on her way to a sensational victory when she was interrupted. Officials postponed the competition of the quarter finals until to-day, automatically planting the finals on Sunday.

Prior to the Harper-Babcock affray, Helen Jacobs had forged on into the semi-final round with a hard-earned victory over Mrs. John Van Ryn, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

SCHMELING AND WALKER SIGNED

New York, Aug. 19.—With neither principal present, articles were signed yesterday for a fifteen-round bout at Madison Square Garden bowl, September 19, between Mickey Walker and Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion.

Schmeling is in Germany but is due back late this month.

Phil Edwards and Alda Wilson Score Smashing Victories

Two Canadian Track Stars Capture 800 and 80-metre Hurdles, Respectively, at Monster Chicago Meet; Alex. Wilson Beaten in 400 Metres; Janucz Kusocinski, Poland, Defeats Lehtinen and Hill in 5,000 Metres; Stella Walsh in Double Victory

Chicago, Aug. 19—Athletes homeward bound from the tenth Olympiad at Los Angeles made a one-night stand here yesterday evening, presenting in competition a number of championship winners before more than 25,000 persons.

Canadian athletes snared two firsts and a second. Phil Edwards, Hamilton, won the 800 metres easily, while Alda Wilson, Toronto, outsped the field in the women's 80-metre hurdles. Alex. Wilson, Montreal, was defeated in his speciality, the 400 metres, finishing about four yards behind Ivan Fuqua, University of Indiana runner.

Janucz Kusocinski, Poland's great distance runner, ruined the 5,000-metre race between Ralph Hill, Oregon, and Lauri Lehtinen, Finland, by beating Hill by about ten yards. Lehtinen withdrew at about 2,800 metres.

The Polish star, an added starter, immediately made it tough for the American and Finnish rivals. Lehtinen followed him closely until he suddenly stepped off the track with the race a little more than half done. Hill made a brilliant attempt for victory in the last lap. He passed Kusocinski after the gun, but the Pole easily outsprinted him to the finish, slowing up as he neared the tape. The time was announced as 14 minutes 59.9 seconds.

Frank Crowley, New York, won a slow 1,500-metre race from Glenn Cunningham, Kansas, and Alfredo Furia, Italy, by a strong finish. Crowley won by three yards in 4 minutes 3.8 seconds.

STELLA WALSH WINS TWICE

Stella Walsh, Poland's Stanislawa Walasiewicz, won both the 100 and 200-metres, tieing the record in the former and bettering it in the longer race. Her time for 100 was 11.9 seconds, equaling her own mark and in the 200 was 24.1 seconds, six-tenths of a second faster than the accepted mark by Hitooi of Japan.

Erich Brochmeyer, Germany, equalled Eddie Tolan's Olympic 200-metres record of 21.1 seconds in winning the event, Borje Strandvall, Finland, was second. Walter Hendrix, another German, was third, and Giacomo Carlina of Italy, fourth.

Babe Didrikson, winner of the two women's Olympic titles and second in another, broke the discus record, only to have Jadwiga Wajsowna, Poland, do still better. The Polish girl tossed the discus 137 feet 3¾ inches after Babe had done 133 feet 10 inches, each bettering Lillian Copeland's world mark of 133 feet 2 inches.

British Columbia Football Association Delivers Ultimatum on Proposed Move

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—Following a meeting of the British Columbia Football Association here yesterday evening, the following statement was handed out by J. M. Richardson, secretary:

"At a meeting of the British Columbia Football Association, held here, the rumor that certain soccer clubs in Victoria intended breaking away and affiliating with the Pacific Coast Football Association, was considered and the provincial association felt that it should call to the attention of these clubs and their players the position in which they were placing themselves by affiliating with the P.C.F.A.

"The P.C.F.A. was formed by clubs which were suspended by the provincial association, when the question of professionalism among these clubs was under investigation by the latter body. If the Victoria clubs affiliate with the new body, the B.C.F.A. will be obliged to suspend them, together with their players.

"The Victoria officials should first consider seriously the advisability of making the move. Experience throughout the Dominion of Canada has shown that outlaw football has never been successful, and this fact has been forcibly pointed out by Secretary Davidson, of the Dominion Football Association. Players will not be permitted to take part in organized soccer in the Dominion of Canada and will lose their standing in organized soccer throughout the world, and their amateur status may be questioned by other lines of sport."

Y Track Athletes Will Defend Titles

Coach Archie McKinnon Will Take Strong Team to Nanaimo on Labor Day

Winners of Island Crowns Last Year Expected to Be Out For Big Meet

Out to defend the laurels they captured in virtually all open events in the Vancouver Island track and field championships at Nanaimo last year, Archie McKinnon's flying "Y" track team will invade the Coal City in force on Labor Day, September 5, it was announced to-day.

Almost all the men who won their events for Victoria in 1931 will be up-island with the local team, which will most probably number twenty competitors.

Joe Addison, holder of the Island century and furlong dash titles, "Chuck" Cunningham, half-mile champion, "Chuck" Copeland quarter mile trophy holder; Art Chapman, winner of the high jump and hop, step, and jump; Murial Mallory, girls' 100-yard title-holder; Caesar Finnemore, distance man, and Lynn Patrick, former Island quarter-mile champion, are expected to form the backbone of the association's team. If Charlie McDonald British Columbia mile titleholder, is in town in time for the meet, he will most probably go up-island with the "Y" team.

OTHER PROBABLES

Joe Roberts, former college rugby star, who has been showing rapid development in the track game, will be another probable on the team, with Noel Morgan, Muss Patrick and Ray Kersey. In the girls' section Zoe Richards, Peggy Brindle, Sheila Swift and Murial Mallory are figured to have the best chances of making the team.

Judging from previous showings the Victorians should have little difficulty in holding their own against any outside competition which may make its way to Nanaimo for the events.

Open events on the programme follow:

Cross country bicycle race, Ladysmith to Nanaimo.
Twelve-pound shot put.
100 yards, boys, eighteen and under.
Sixty yards, eighteen and under.

Wheat Prices Drop Suddenly In "About Face" of Bearish Pit

Associated Press

Winnipeg, Aug. 19—Hedging pressure at the low points and lower wheat prices at Liverpool gave a substantial downturn to wheat prices here to-day. Scarcity of export buying was also a bearish factor. Values at the close were 1¾ to 1⅝ lower.

October closed at 56⅜; December at 57⅜ and May at 62⅜. The decline was a complete about-face" from the trend indicated at the opening. Early gains of ½ cent were lost in early in the outside markets. Heavy movetrade when weakness became apparent ment of wheat from farms in the west and no buyers brought about heavy hedging pressure which quickly sent values to the low points. To-day's movement from farms to country elevators amounted to 1,240,000 bushels, compared to only 437,000 bushels last year.

A moderate export trade was reported, including a cargo of grain sold by the Alberta Wheat Pool to Chinese buyers. This, however, was not enough to take the slack out of the market. Unfavorable crop news filtered in from Poland and Lithuania. This was a factor in the early strength displayed at Liverpool but later offset by weather reports showing excellent harvesting conditions in western Europe. Odd lot sales in cash wheat were completed at spreads slightly higher for the top grades. Coarse grain trade was unimportant.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—Wheat start off strong this morning with prices ⅜ to ½ higher in the two nearby months, but the upturn did not hold, and around mid session prices were 1c lower than the previous close, and into the daily bids. From then on it was a very narrow market, and mostly following the trend in Chicago.

Export business showed a little improvement with total sales around 750,000 bushels. Of this business the Alberta pool worked 200,000 bushels late yesterday afternoon and another 300,000 bushels to Shanghai.

There was some scattered buying by seaboard houses during the morning, while Chicago interests appeared to be on both sides of this market, either putting on new spreads or unwinding an old one. There was some scattered selling by elevator companies by way of hedging, but it was not heavy. The country marketings in the west are gradually increasing and were 1,240,000 bushels on Thursday as compared with 437,000 bushels a year ago. Inspections are also very much larger.

In the local cash market there was not much doing, the demand appeared to be indifferent and small. There was little or no pressure from offerings, and all spreads were about unchanged. Liverpool closed steady at ¼ to ⅜ higher, but barley as firm as earlier in the day. Buenos Aires at midday was ⅛ to ¼ lower. World shipments will probably be quite small again this week with another decrease in on passage supplies.

Weather continues favorable in Canada for harvest, which is gradually spreading into northern areas where the crops are heavy but somewhat later than the southern districts. Look for a sagging market and would take advantage of the upturns on wheat to sell wheat.

Winnipeg futures closes weak, and on the bottom showing a loss of 1¾ to 1⅞ for the day, while Chicago was 1½ to 1¼ lower.

Coarse grains: These markets continued exceptionally quiet with nothing of feature. A little demand for oats and barley, but it is only for odd cars. There is not much hedging so far, all markets were easier and were effected by the decline in wheat.

Oats closed ½ lower, barley ⅞ to ½ lower and rye 1⅛ to ⅞ lower.

Flax dull and featureless. Demand poor. Closing prices 1¼ to 1 lower.

Liverpool due 1¼ to 1⅜ lower on Winnipeg.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Wheat: The temporary stimulus given the market late yesterday by the further talk of commodity pools failed to last and the market sold off to-day with final figures around 1¼c under yesterday's close. Liverpool was unresponsive, closing ¼ to ⅜ higher.

Foreign demand is sluggish in the face of small world shipments again in prospect. Australian shipments being only 533,000 bushels, with 830,000 bushels from Argentina. Most of the small Australian shipments went to the Orient. French farmers are said to be stopping threshing operations to steady a rapidly declining market, this in the face of almost a complete ban on foreign wheat imports.

Winnipeg has shown a rather heavy tendency and does not appear to be much affected by the promise of a preferential treatment from England on wheat sales. Northwest reports confirm a holding tendency, but receipts will be fair for a time at least and Minneapolis stocks increased 800,000 bushels for the week. Northwest receipts were 412 cars, against 243 a year ago. Winnipeg had 986 cars, against 226 a year ago. Export business was confined to a moderate amount of Canadian wheat.

Weather was fair in Canada and favorable for harvesting, also forcing the late wheat to an early maturity. The market is in a trading area, but will probably take more export business to cause more than temporary rallies. However, there is evidence of good support on the setbacks.

Corn: Market was affected by wheat and was a little lower, with no special feature. Receipts, 213 cars estimated. Argentine shipments 5,280,000 bushels. Weather has cleared up and most of the belt had fair and warmer conditions. Country offerings were moderate. A two-sided market appears likely.

Oats: The tone was easy, with the usual hedging pressure and moderate commission buying. Receipts were 177 cars and primary arrivals still liberal.

Rye: Foreign news on rye is not encouraging, as Poland is exporting and Germany has a good crop. There is not much reason to look for any independent movement in rye prices.

Commercial Aviation Gets "Clean Sheet" In Britain For Year

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London—Bright little illustrated advertisements of official publications have for some time past tempted passers-by to enter His Majesty's Stationery Office in Aldwych.

But now the "brightening-up" movement has spread to the "Blue books" themselves. One has actually been issued with twelve photographs!

It deals, however, with a subject which would be interesting in the (outwardly) dullest of books—the progress of civil aviation during the past year.

About 2,250,000 letters were sent off by air during these twelve months—an increase of about 500,000 on 1930's total.

The completion of the Avro mail plane, the fastest commercial aircraft yet produced, was one of the events of the year. "This aircraft," says the report, "foreshadows the production of special mail-carrying machines capable of speeds in the neighborhood of 200 miles per hour."

British commercial aviation has a "clean sheet" for the year, for not a single fare-paying passenger has been injured. Taking civil aviation of all kinds, there were fifty-two accidents during the year which required notification, and fifteen of them resulted in loss of life.

One interesting side of the work of airmen which the Blue Book deals with is aerial surveying. It points out, for example, that the entire task of surveying and mapping nearly 20,000 square miles in Africa will be completed in less than twenty-seven months. Ground surveyors would have taken ten years to do the same work.

REAL "HOLLAND" TUNNEL

Antwerp, Aug. 19.—Belgium's "Holland" vernacular tunnel is to be designed by the same engineers who built the New York "Holland" tunnel, and work has started on this huge project. The tunnel will link Antwerp and Ste. Anne.

SHIPPING, RAILWAY AND AVIATION NEWS

Von Gronau Plans Hop Before Monday

Is To-day at Prince Rupert Making Plans For Flight Across Pacific to Japan

Is Studying Feasibility of Mail Route From England to Countries in Orient

Prince Rupert, Aug. 19.—A tall, tanned German with thinning blond hair, to-day looked across the Pacific Ocean toward Japan, Siberia and his native country's capital, Berlin. Before Monday noon he and his three companions hoped to be on the way toward completition of what they believe is a safe and sane flight around the world, mostly in the sub-Arctic regions.

The fliers are Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, flying instructor, who three times has crossed the Atlantic Ocean in a flying boat, and three other Germans who arrived here yesterday after flying about 750 miles from Lac la Biche, Alberta, in seven hours and fifty-five minutes. Blessed by good weather, the former sailor and his party soared around and over peaks on their non-stop trip over the Rocky Mountains.

Aiming to prove the feasibility of a sub-Arctic route for an air mail service, the fliers took off from List, Island of Sylt, in the North Sea, flew across the Atlantic to Iceland and Greenland, then to Labrador and Montreal, took a jaunt into the United States and then struck across northern Canada.

To-day they revised their plans for continuing their flight home. Their first projected stop after leaving here is Cordova, Alaska. Then they hope to go to Attu, in the Aleutian Islands. After crossing the Pacific they expect to spend some time in Japan, but do not plan to cross Russia on their way to Germany. Instead they expect to fly southwest from Japan and travel over the East Indies, across India and then northeast to Berlin.

Describing the flight from Lac la Biche, Pilot von Gronau said that part of Canada was ideal flying country, dotted with lakes throughout. The aviators swung northwesterly after leaving the Alberta hamlet, following the Peace River. They turned down into the Prince George country and flew on to Prince Rupert, skimming to the wharf at Seal Cove.

The only incident on the trip, Pilot von Gronau said, was a thunder storm in the Peace River district, which did not bother them.

His work of studying the routes for feasibility of a mail service was really completed when Prince Rupert was reached, he said. But he would not divulge details. He was not prepared at present to make any comparison nor say what superiority the northern route offered.

During the week-end the big Dornier Wal will be closely inspected and the generous supply of fuel stored here for the last five weeks will be poured into the plane's tanks. The fliers may take off Sunday, but around noon Monday is the more likely time, according to Pilot von Gronau.

Huge Plane Carrier Floated From Beach

U.S.S. Saratoga Released Off San Diego After Four Hours Ashore

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 19.—Aground for more than four hours, the naval aircraft carrier Saratoga was set free yesterday evening from the sandy ocean floor some 600 yards offshore from here.

The $35,000,000 vessel was floated undamaged, an announcement from the commander of the scouting fleet said, and proceeded on to the naval base at San Pedro, about ten miles northwest of here.

With the aid of two naval tugs, one pushing and one pulling, the giant carrier was put afloat at 6.52 p.m., coast time.

She ran aground four hours and seventeen minutes earlier in a hazy fog during target manoeuvres near here, and was forced to call the naval station at San Diego for aid after several minutes unsuccessful attempts to pull off by her own power. Tugs were dispatched from San Diego and San Pedro and two battleships hovered by.

While aground the Saratoga lay a little more than half a mile off shore, with a fleet of small tugs and pleasure craft gathered about her, but at a safe distance. The giant ship was lying parallel with the shore line and a huge crowd gathered to watch her. Sunset Beach is a fashionable district, with big homes built on the hills immediately behind. Motorists from miles around turned towards the beach when news spread that the Saratoga was ashore.

For more than an hour the Saratoga endeavored to free herself, her propellors churning white foam against the shallow bottom. The ship had no list and it looked from the shore as if she was anchored. There were more than a dozen salvage tugs around the ship within an hour, and five were steaming down from San Pedro. They arrived just after the Saratoga was free.

Local Stolen Yacht Seized At Angeles

James Ormond's Craft Ordaw, Stolen From Yacht Club, Held For $10,000 Fine

The twenty-five foot powerboat Ordaw, which was stolen from its moorings at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in Cadboro Bay on July 28, has turned up in Port Angeles and has led its owner, James Ormond of Quebec Street into an entanglement with customs and immigration authorities of the United States, who are holding the craft at the city across the water.

The Ordaw was stolen from here in the early morning hours of July 28, before daylight, and was taken around to Ogden Point, where the radio and some of the furnishings were removed. The weather being calm the craft was pushed off for the city across the Straits.

Customs authorities at Port Angeles watched the Ordaw arrive from Victoria and when the boat did not go immediately to the dock, the officials kept their eye on it and later went out to investigate. In charge was a sixteen-year-old boy who gave his name as Howard Hanson and said he was from Victoria. He told the customs men that he frequently went over from Victoria and they permitted him to spend the night aboard.

The next morning, however, when the customs men visited the Ordaw, the youth had left. It was thought at first that he had returned to Victoria by ferry, but a close check-up here by police had failed to locate his whereabouts. It is now thought that he went ashore at Port Angeles and is now somewhere in the State of Washington. Immigration officials across the line are now looking for him.

Laws and regulations of the United States are keeping the Ordaw at Port Angeles, under seizure. Mr. Ormond has made one trip over about his stolen craft and may have to go down to Seattle. Decision of customs authorities at Washington is being awaited before any disposition is made of the craft. In its present status the yacht faces a $10,000 fine and confiscation.

French Steamer Sierrentz Leaves Churchill With Season's First Cargo of Grain

Churchill, Man., Aug. 19.—While the holds of the British steamer Pennyworth are being filled with flour, rolled oats and wheat, at this new northern port, the French steamer Sierrentz is ploughing northward through the waters of Hudson Bay with a cargo of wheat bound for Le Havre. The Sierrentz was the first boat to arrive this season and the first to leave.

Her load of 230,000 bushels of No. 1 northern wheat is consigned to L. Dreyfus, the French grain importer, and before leaving, Capt. P. A. Mege indicated the Dreyfus Company would likely send in more ships during the season.

The Pennyworth brought the first inbound freight to enter the new port, 500 tons of miscellaneous goods. It included Scotch whisky for the Manitoba and Saskatchewan liquor commissions, chinaware, glass, motor oils and electrical equipment. The goods will move out by rail shortly to Regina and Saskatoon.

The previous holder of the title was Sir Bertram Hayes, who retired as captain of the Majestic in 1924.

B.C. PRAISED BY LONDON DAILY

The London Times Publishes Articles on Lumber Industry of Vancouver Island

The lumber industry of Vancouver Island was the subject of an interesting article published recently in The London Times, following the return to London of the party that visited this coast under the auspices of the government early in the summer. A series of articles were written on Canada by Ralph Deakin, foreign editor of The Times, who was a member of the party.

Two fine pictures show ships being loaded with lumber for overseas shipment, at Chemainus, where the members of the party were guests for a day. Mr. Deakin describes in detail the workings of a modern Vancouver Island lumber mill.

Besides the lumbering, the fishing and fruit-growing industries of British Columbia were discussed in the articles. Mr. Deakin pointed out the exceptional merits of Douglas fir and the desirability of giving it a quota in the United Kingdom market; the unique marketing problem of the Okanagan growers and their desire for a British duty against non-empire products; the superb quality of the salmon and halibut caught in northern British Columbia waters and the claims of the fishermen for preferential treatment in the British market.

The scenic attractions of British Columbia received much comment in The Times. Pictures were shown of many beauty spots, and from a tourist standpoint the articles point out that this province has the equivalent of twenty Switzerlands and half a dozen Norways."

Plan Winter Cruises To Distant Countries

Liners Being Prepared to Take Cruises to Mediterranean and Around World

With the approaching close of the summer tourist season, which this year has not been quite up to the mark of other seasons, transportation companies are busy making plans for the exodus for the winter months. Again this year there will be cruises around the world, to the Mediterranean and the West Indies, the Hawaiian Islands and the isles of the south Pacific.

Every year about this time the wealthy classes of North America commence to plan their trips for the winter. Some prefer the water, and there are always plenty of long voyages to sunny climes and tropical waters to suit these tastes. Others would rather go to Palm Beach, or southern California. Transportation men on this continent expect a fairly brisk movement of travelers this winter and already many reservations have been made for the extensive cruises on some of the world's greatest liners.

Again this season the great liner Empress of Britain, of the Canadian Pacific fleet, will make a voyage around the globe. She made her first such trip last year. She is scheduled to sail from New York December 3 and to visit thirty-eight countries before returning to New York late in April. The Britain is now plying the Atlantic and will be laid up late in September for annual overhaul before starting off around the world.

The big German liner Resolute will again cruise around the world this year as will the Cunard liner Franconia. A unique cruise of the world will be taken by the liner Carinthia, which will make a longer cruise than usual. Besides calling at the regular ports on a world voyage this liner will go off the regular course and will visit at Australia and New Zealand, South America and South Africa.

There will be many ships cruising the Mediterranean this coming winter. Canadian shipping will be represented by the Empress of Australia, which is to sail from New York January 31 for a three months' cruise. Some of the biggest Atlantic liners will also take short and frequent cruises to the Mediterranean during the winter, while nearly every day there will be departures from New York for the West Indies and Panama.

TENDERS SOUGHT FOR B.C. FERRIES

The provincial Department of Public Works has called for tenders for the operation of three subsidized ferries on the Agassiz-Rosedale, Ladner-Woodward and Gray Creek-Fraser's Landing routes, it is announced at the Parliament Buildings. The ferries will link up some of the province's main highways.

In each case those intending to submit tenders are requested to specify the amount of government assistance they will require after rates and other charges controlled by the province have been revised.

The ferry connection between Agassiz and Rosedale will link up the transprovincial and the transcanada highways on the north side of the Fraser.

The Ladner-Woodward route will connect Greater Vancouver with the Delta area. Previously the service was maintained by a private company operating under charter. The charter has now expired.

In place of hiring transportation as it did formerly on the Gray Creek-Fraser's Landing route, the government hopes to establish a new subsidized service there.

ROTARY PEACE AIM STRESSED

S. Wettrick, Seattle, Voices Plea For World Accord at Luncheon Here

In an inspired address, during which he emphasized the logic of building up goodwill among men to secure peace on earth, Sam Wettrick, eloquent speaker of Seattle's Rotary Club, yesterday gave members of nine Puget Sound branches and the Victoria organization a finer appreciation of Rotary's great sixth objective. His address was delivered in a programme presented by Seattle at the greatest intercity meeting of its kind ever held in Victoria. Between 300 and 400 people, including ladies of the movement, sat down to lunch at the Empress Hotel.

The assembly represented two friendly nations gathered together in friendship, typical of the club's sixth objective, Mr. Wettrick told the meeting. He analyzed the principle of the club's world-wide aim for peace, stating it was Rotary's desire to enlighten its members in order that they might spread a beneficial influence among others.

In strong terms he spoke of the uselessness of war and quoting from Tennyson's "Locksley Hall," pointed to a finer fellowship among nations when the world had reached a stage of universal friendship.

Turning to the machinery for the promotion of amicable relations between countries, he sketched the workings of the Kellogg Pact and World Court. These two instruments had been of vital importance in settling peacefully questions which carried a threat of war.

The creation of a world opinion against violence in international relations was of the utmost importance, Mr. Wettrick stated.

MAY JOIN WORLD COURT

Referring to the world court he expressed the belief the United States would become a member when the matter was referred to the Senate again in December.

Just as these great international machines were designed to promote peace, so was Rotary, the speaker said. The movement could create a sentiment behind the existing machinery for peace.

By having the nations operate on the lines of Rotary's peace objective war could be abolished, he concluded.

George McGregor, president of the local club, extended a welcome to the visitors and their ladies and introduced the different presidents of the Puget Sound clubs present at the function. Several responded in well-chosen words and called upon their delegations to stand for introduction.

Mayor David Leeming, on behalf of the city of Victoria, expressed his pleasure in welcoming the clubmen and their guests to the Capital. He spoke of the enjoyment the recent conference of district governors of Rotary here had given him and expressed his assurance of the benefits of intercity meetings. Closing he offered the Rotarians the freedom of the city.

Mr. McGregor then read a greeting telegram from the Vancouver club not represented at the gathering.

Harris Hart, chairman of the Seattle international committee, expressed the visitors' appreciation of the courtesy extended them by Victoria and thanked the local branch for the support it had given Seattle during the international convention. He called upon Stuart Mannell, president of the Seattle club, to take charge of the programme.

Mr. Mannell also voiced the pleasure of the visiting clubmen in attending the meeting. He saw Victoria as an international city where both United States and Canadian clubs met.

Fred Smith, president of the Tacoma club, delivered a message of friendship from his branch, thanking Victoria for its hospitality. He introduced Jack Gordon of the Seattle club, who entertained the gathering with several humorous impersonation recitations.

Roland "Viv" Vivian contributed to the light side of the programme with several delightful vocal selections in which he enlisted the support of a Seattle-Tacoma quartette.

Community singing was led by Mr. Vivian and R. R. Webb, Victoria.

Following the luncheon the visitors were taken for drives around the city Some enjoyed games of golf with the Victoria members.

Among the Rotary leaders of the Pacific Northwest attending the function were Clayton Williams and J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., former district governors; Henry Heal, president of the Bellingham club; Raymond Cook, Everett; William Polzin, Port Angeles; Harry Cotton, Port Townsend; Stuart Mannell, Seattle; Jess Mantle, Sequim; F. R. Potter, Sumner, and Fred Smith, Tacoma.
